I-J FORUM

Energy Saving Plan Is Praised

Marin and Southern Sonoma residents today generally praised President Nixon's plan to save energy, but roughly half added the controls either were overdue or too limited to fill the energy gap.

Independent-Journal reporters asked residents selected at random from the telephone directory how they reacted to the President's announcement last night that he will ban gasoline sales on Sundays, limit highway speeds to 50 miles an hour and impose various other controls.

None of the persons responding to the poll opposed the speed limit, and most favored it.

Several said they had not heard the speech and knew nothing about Nixon's plan, some apparently because they were away during the long weekend.

Some clearly were so disgusted with the continuing Watergate scandals that they would distrust almost anything the President said.

Only one suggested nuclear power should have been developed earlier, but he predicted its belated development now would mean "the Arabs are cutting their throats."

Here are the views expressed:

Mildred I. Goodman, office manager, of 445 Upper Scenic Avenue, San Anselmo — "I didn't listen to his speech last night but I can't understand why things weren't done before now if the crisis is so severe. The 50-mile-per-hour speed limit would be a good thing and would reduce highway deaths. Americans should quit driving gas hogs. I've always driven a small car because I believe in conserving our natural resources."

Mrs. Edward A. Robbins, housewife, 41 Plymouth Avenue, Mill Valley — "We listened to it but had no reaction. We were just kind of numbed. His proposals need much longer study."

Charles R. Banfield, 68, of Fairfax, a mortician — "I'm in favor of it (the President's program) 100 per cent."

Mrs. George Martinson, 82, retired, 21 Peninsula Road, Belvedere — "I think Nixon's trying to do his best."

Leonard E. Malherbe, 45, sales manager, 22 Keats Drive, Mill Valley — "It's difficult to say anything not knowing what the real shortage is. Closing of gas stations for one day a week won't save that much fuel because it doesn't represent that much of our total consumption. There's more wastage in things like cars left running when they're not moving. On the electrical end, we have considerable wastage from things like street lights left on at the entrances and exits of freeways."

Emily Spalding, 47, teacher, 20 Marin View Avenue, Homestead Valley — "I thought his ideas were pretty vague and corresponded to the way he's run his entire administration."

Rose Kent, 42, housewife, 27 Oakwood Drive, San Rafael — "I go along with him; it's a necessity. Actually, you go too fast on the highways. Even the buses really go too fast. I'm a slow driver anyway."

Shirley Elkington, 40, housewife, 153 Toyon Lane, Sausalito — "It has to be done, and it's a good first step. The speed limit seems fair. It's fine for around Marin County, but I can't judge how it will be on the road to Sacramento and places like that."

Lt. Col. Durward M. Garrett, 48, retired Air Force officer, 22 Fairfax Street, San Rafael — "I'm glad to see him taking some steps to take care of (the energy shortage). We should have developed more nuclear power earlier. The speed limit doesn't bother me at all; I don't travel that fast anyway. The Christmas lights I'm going to miss. They probably will have to cut down a little more on industry than planned, though that's rough on unemployment. I look for it in two years to be relieved. I think the Arabs are cutting their throats."

Wayne R. Ingalls, 48, postal clerk, of 42 Cordone Drive, San Anselmo — "I think energy conservation is something that should have been done a long time ago."

Irmelin Hafstad, 30, housewife, of 784 Montecillo Road, Terra Linda — "Well, he's a strange man. I guess he has a point, but I don't know if he's going to make it work. Right now, I'm so upset with the man that it's hard to believe anything he says. I would like to know what's behind all this."

Vivian Mitchell, 44, housewife, of 2709 Heatherstone Drive, San Rafael — "I really didn't listen to it. But what else can we do but cut down. I really am for cutting down on speeds."

Mary Welch, 39, a housewife, 30 Castlewood Drive, San Rafael — "I'm very skeptical. I am a conservationist and have been aware for years that there was an energy shortage, but I am not a supporter of the President. I think there are other options, and that industry and business ought to sacrifice as much as consumers. I think that Watergate is the number one problem."

Robert Harvey, 67, retired longshoreman — 335 Tomales, Sausalito, "The whole family liked the message. It is not for us to decide if the measures are too drastic."

Myron Spaulding, 40, boat builder and designer — Gate 5 Road, Sausalito, "The speech is a difficult thing to have an opinion on. Everyone in business feels they should not be put too far out. I am in the boat building business and I hope this encourages people to sail but doesn't discourage them from driving to their boat."

MILEAGE MAKER — The Sunday shutdown of service stations and other energy-saving measures announced by President Nixon yesterday will have little effect on Wayne Jaynes of Battle Creek, Mich. Jaynes' answer to the gasoline shortage is a three-wheeled motorized rickshaw that gets between 160 and 200 miles per gallon at speeds up to 20 miles an hour. The plastic-covered cab carrying his 2-year-old-old son, was built by Jaynes and attached to the rear basket.

Nixon Watergate Tapes Scheduled For Judge Sirica

Portion Of Talk With Haldeman Is Said 'Inadvertently' Erased

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's Watergate tapes were to be turned over to federal judge John J. Sirica this afternoon, White House lawyers said today.

The disclosure came as Sirica re-opened hearings into the tapes.

Sirica said he would "have custody" of the tapes "some time this afternoon."

No further details were immediately revealed.

After announcing that he would be given the tapes today, Sirica looked at White House lawyer Leonard Garment who rose from his chair and nodded his head.

The first witness called was Nixon's special assistant and personal secretary, Rose Mary Woods.

She was summoned to testify about how she apparently erased an 18-minute section of one of the tapes. A White House source said she "inadvertently" erased part of the tape while transcribing it.

Miss Wood's testimony prior to an early afternoon recess did not get into how part of a June 20, 1972, conversation between Nixon and H.R. Haldeman, then his chief of staff, was erased.

The conversation took place three days after the break-in of Democratic headquarters at the Watergate complex.

At one point, Miss Woods began to relate that when she and the President were listening to the tapes in late September, they "listened to what has been called a mistake"—an apparent reference to the missing 18 minutes. She was not allowed to explain what she meant by "mistake."

Miss Woods testified Nov. 8 about precautions she took in transcribing the tape. She did not mention then anything about the missing portion.

"What precautions did you take?" she was asked at the earlier hearing.

"Everyone said to be very careful," she responded. I don't want to sound like I'm bragging but I don't believe I'm so stupid that they had to go over and over it. I was told if you pushed that button it would erase.

" I think I used every precaution —I very carefully didn't touch that side of the machine."

"What specific precautions

Hostages Still Held On Hijacked Jetliner

BEIRUT (UPI) — Negotiations to free 264 persons aboard a hijacked Dutch jumbo jet failed today and Arab guerrillas who seized the 747 plane yesterday took off today from Libya's Tripoli airport and flew to Malta, the lives of the hostages still in jeopardy.

A spokesman for the Royal Dutch Airline (KLM) said the plane left Tripoli at 10:30 a.m. EST for an unknown destination. He said the 247 passengers and 17 crewmen had remained aboard the tightly closed aircraft at Tripoli during many hours of negotiations.

Arab news services said the key guerrilla demands were a Dutch pledge to close transit camps in the Netherlands for Jewish emigrants bound for Israel and an end to all emigration of Soviet Jews to Israel by way of Holland. Holland replied that no such facilities existed, and the situation remained deadlocked.

The guerrillas commandeered the KLM plane yesterday shortly after it had taken off from Beirut Airport en route to Japan and forced it to fly first to Damascus, where Syrian authorities refused to refuel it, and then to Nicosia, Cyprus, where authorities provided fuel but refused to release seven Palestinians jailed in a previous hijacking and the plane flew on to Libya.

First reports said there were seven guerrillas aboard the KLM 747, but the airline said later there were three.

KLM said the hijackers had tried earlier in the day to leave Tripoli but that Libyan authorities refused. Later the plane took off anyway for the brief hop across the Mediterranean.

The Arab guerrillas had threatened to blow up the big plane with all those aboard if their demands were not met. Whether the threat still persisted was not known —Holland said it could not meet the demands because the hijackers were talking about a situation that did not exist.

The principal Arab demands were these:

The KLM airline will no longer transport arms to Israel.

The Dutch government will change its "pro-Israeli policy" drastically.

Holland will no longer render aid to the emigration of Soviet Jews to Israel.

The Libyan News Agency (ARNA) reported that Jan J. De Roos, charge d'affaires and interim head of the Dutch diplomatic mission in Tripoli, had conveyed two statements from the Dutch government to the Libyan authorities.

"Holland is not a country involved in the transit of Soviet Jews," one Dutch statement said. "Since the beginning of the (October) war, Holland has never offered any military help to Israel. It does not allow and never has allowed volunteers to join the Israeli armed forces. Royal Dutch airlines has not and will not carry any military equipment or arms to Israel."

The second statement pledged that Holland would not permit the opening of camps for Jewish refugees.

The Dutch statement said it expected the Arabs to free the hostages since it had given these pledges.

Libyan airport officials sent food to the plane, including milk for children aboard.

A KLM spokesman said in Amsterdam that judging from the names of the passengers they included eight Britons or Americans, 174 Japanese, 15 Indians, 22 from the Philippines or Latin America, eight Arabs, eight Greeks, seven Dutch and one each from Switzerland, Lebanon, Pakistan, Thailand and Norway.

Nixon Cuts Auto, Heating Fuels

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon is cutting the amount of gasoline available to motorists and heating oil for homes—both by 15 per cent—in an energy belt-tightening which he says is only a start.

He announced he would lower speed limits across America, close gasoline stations part of each weekend, limit aviation fuel and curtail Christmas and ornamental lighting in an effort to deal with the energy crisis.

He asked gas stations voluntarily to close from 9 p.m. each Saturday until midnight Sunday, starting next weekend. Nixon said he would use emergency powers to make this mandatory as soon as he gets an energy bill from Congress, perhaps by mid-December. The rationing program for heating oil is to take effect Jan. 1.

In a broadcast address yesterday calling for "discipline, self-restraint and unity," Nixon outlined steps to overcome somewhat more than half of the anticipated overall shortage of 17 per cent in petroleum this winter. He did not say what steps would be taken to meet the remaining shortage.

Nixon acknowledged economic dislocations were likely, and promised to try to see "that any disruptions to our economy which may occur are shortlived and that they do not cause lasting damage."

In an unusually bitter weekend statement, House Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., blamed the energy crunch more on the administration's "incompetence" than the Arab embargo against Israel's friends. He said a recession and an 8 per cent unemployment rate could result. Many economists and businessmen agree, and a stock market plunge reflected their gloom.

The country uses some 17 million barrels of petroleum a day. By mid-winter, a daily shortfall of 3.5 million barrels had been anticipated before Nixon acted to cut consumption. He took some immediate steps and announced others to be taken when armed with power by Congress.

These immediate steps were announced:

A cutback in heating oil deliveries starting Jan. 1 under regulations to be published tomorrow. Deliveries to homes are to be cut 15 per cent, to commercial and business places by 25 per cent and to industrial users by 10 per cent. Anticipated saving: 530,000 barrels a day.

Refineries will be told to cut deliveries of gasoline to gas stations and wholesalers by 10 per cent of last year's demand. Since demand grows steadily, this amounts to a 15 per cent cutback below present day demand. Regulations will be published in December for this indirect form of rationing, which is to save 900,000 barrels a day.

Jet fuel deliveries to domestic airlines will be cut 5 per cent Dec. 1 and 15 per cent Jan. 7, 1974. International airlines will be reduced to their 1972 levels Dec. 1 and by 15 per cent Jan. 7. A 220,000 barrel daily saving is anticipated after Jan. 7.

Regulations to be published tomorrow and effective Dec. 7 will prevent power plants and industries from switching from coal to oil.

These steps were announced for after Congress completes action on the energy bill:

A nationwide speed limit of 50 miles per hour for cars and 55 m.p.h. for trucks and buses, which run more efficiently at the higher speed. In the meantime, states were urged to adopt those limits and motorists to comply voluntarily. A 200,000 gallon daily saving was foreseen.

A ban from 9 p.m. Saturdays to midnight Sunday on the sale of gasoline for automobiles, trucks, pleasure boats, private airplanes and recreational vehicles. Nixon asked gas stations to voluntarily comply this weekend. A 50,000 gallon daily saving was anticipated.

Prohibition of the use of outdoor lighted signs except when business places are open.

A prohibition on the use of Christmas lights outside homes or businesses.

A White House fact sheet underscored the severity of the expected shortages. Without actions to reduce consumption, it said, there would be shortages of 32 per cent for jet fuel, 21 per cent for gasoline, 17.5 per cent for heating oil and 29.4 per cent for residual oil used by power plants and industry.

Second Water Director Denies Grand Jury Bond Issue Charge

A second director of the Marin Municipal Water District has denied the county grand jury's claim that the water board contributed to the defeat of its own bond issue.

In a letter to the Independent-Journal, board member Ronald T. Stafford urged that the jury "confine itself to investigation and not railing accusations" in the future.

He branded as false an accusation that he refused to cooperate with the jury by missing several interviews.

"In fact, Margaret Fawcett, chairperson of the Municipalities, Districts and Commissions Committee, canceled the only interview scheduled," Stafford said. "Her reason was that the only member interested in talking with me had resigned from the jury. I believe this member was Walter Freitas, a large landowner affected by the district hookup ban."

In its report released two weeks ago, the jury blamed the board's "vacillation, self-contradictions and lack of leadership in providing information to the electorate as the chief factors in the Nov. 6 defeat of the $7.5 million bond measure for water supply.

"No previous bond issue has been so openly discussed and dissected," Stafford said, citing frequent public hearings and three public meetings at which the election fact sheet was discussed.

Stafford called the claim that there was "guarded distribution" of the fact sheet "totally unfounded" and pointed out that legal counsel had advised limiting board activities in publicizing the bond issue.

"The board was successfully sued in 1971 for the illegal use of district funds in promoting Measuer H and was prevented by court injunction from distributing fact sheets in the Nov. 1971 election," Stafford said. "Is the grand jury suggesting that the water board was remiss for not doing what the court prevented only two years earlier?

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

SEATO Cut

BANGKOK (UPI) - The Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO), used to provide grounds for America's entry into the Vietnam war, announced plans today to cut back its military alliance to little more than a paper role in the region.

Secretary General Sunthorn Hongladarom told a news conference SEATO, formed in 1954 under U.S. auspices, was scrapping its activities as a military deterrent aimed at preventing outside aggression against the six full members.

He said, however, the organization would continue to provide advice to members, such as Thailand and the Philippines, fighting insurgent groups.

Weather Deaths

Five persons died in tornadoes in Missouri and a tornado killed one person in Arkansas. Five persons died because of the weather in Oklahoma.

Twisters and violent thunderstorms caused property damage in Missouri, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Louisiana and Texas Friday, Saturday and Saturday night. Fair weather prevailed over most of the Southwest yesterday afternoon.

Soprano Dies

NEW YORK (UPI) - Jennie Tourel, international star of opera and solo recitals who performed up until last month despite treatment for lung cancer, died Friday night. She was 63.

The Canadian-born mezzo coprano began her career at the Opera Comique in Paris in 1933. She appeared in the major European capitals and across the United States. Her last public appearance was with Australian Joan Sutherland in Chicago in October.

Born in Montreal of Russian parents, she was taken to France as a child and received early voice training from Anna El-Tour. Miss Tourel formed her professional name as an anagram from her teacher's name.

Peron Still Ill

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) - President Juan D. Peron, 78, recuperating from an illness officially described as a bronchial infection, spent the fifth consecutive day confined to his home yesterday.

The president was reported handling official business at his private residence in a Buenos Aires suburb. Welfare minister Jose Lopez Rega, one of Peron's closest advisers, met with him to discuss government affairs, according to an official source.

Brezhnev Visit

NEW DELHI (UPI) - Soviet Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev arrived in India to a warm welcome today, but the government was apprehensive over reported Russian plans to press for permanent port facilities.

Government sources said Brezhnev was expected to use his five-day visit to press for port facilities on the Indian Ocean for Soviet naval ships in exchange for a package of aid and arms.

The sources said the Soviet leader might also try to get India's commitment to a Kremlin plan for a collective Asian security pact in addition to the port facilities.

Supply Ships

PHNOM PENH (UPI) - Twelve ships carrying fuel, food and ammunition up the Mekong River ran a gauntlet of Communist rocket fire to reach Phnom Penh last night with vital supplies for the refugee-swollen capital.

In South Vietnam, the Viet Cong accused the U.S. Air Force today of flying spy planes over its territory and demanded the alleged missions by high-flying SR71 jets be stopped.

Crew members said the five freighters in the Mekong River convoy were hit, although none was seriously damaged, by 75mm recoilless rifle fire 24 miles south of Phnom Penh. The seven tankers came through the ambush unscathed.

Soldiers Slain

BELFAST (UPI) - Gunmen killed two British soldiers in a high-rise apartment building hours after a hooded young man was savagely beaten and stabbed to death by extremists, the army said today.

A military spokesman said the two soldiers were shot at point-blank range last night while they were searching an apartment building near Londonderry's Roman Catholic Bogside district.

Soldiers checking other parts of the building reported hearing a dozen shots before finding the two dead men in a pool of blood near the top-floor elevator doors.

Pipeline Bursts

Police said the ground suddenly caved in shortly before dark, wiping away several structures and five lanes of six-lane Highway 58.

The cave-in left a hole about 100 yards wide, 200 yards long and 30 to 75 deep.

There were no immediate casualty reports, but sources at the scene said some persons were believed trapped in a building that collapsed. Reports said at least nine families were left homeless.

Hongisto Quiets Upset Prisoners

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) - Sheriff Richard Hongisto said yesterday he cooled the tempers of county jail trusties, angry because they had to turn off their television sets at 11 p.m., by telling them TV was "noise pollution at its worst."

Hongisto said he told them his opinion was based on a recent overnight, voluntary stay in a Philadelphia jail during a sheriffs' conference. Many of the inmates there, he said, told him about the noise.

A total of 58 inmates at the San Bruno jail demonstrated Friday night for longer video-viewing hours.

Reagans To Asia

Arab Leaders Prepare Summit

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

While Arab leaders gathered in Algiers today for their first summit conference in four years to align strategy against Israel, Israel and Egypt bargained unsuccessfully for 90 minutes today over the withdrawal of their armies on the Suez front.

The Israeli National Radio quoted U.N. officials as saying the crucial talks went well and that the next session between Maj. Gen. Aharon Yariv of Israel and Egyptian Maj. Gen. Mohammed Gamassy would be held Wednesday. But UPI correspondent Raymond Wilkinson reported from Kilometer 101 on the Cairo-Suez Road that today's talks ended with no sign of a break.

The Israeli military command reported an exchange of artillery and small arms fire south of Ismailia on the Egyptian front yesterday, the most serious incident of the month-old cease-fire. The National Radio said one Israeli soldier was killed in the fighting.

Officials in Jerusalem said Israeli troops had been placed on alert on both the Syrian and Egyptian fronts "because of the tension that has existed for the past few days." Egyptian officials have called the ceasefire talks near collapse and warned that Egypt may renew the war unless Israel withdraws to the Oct. 22 cease-fire lines.

Israeli press reports said the troop withdrawal deadlock resulted from Egypt's insistence on keeping a force of 400 tanks on the east bank of the Suez Canal instead of the small policing force demanded by Israel.

The newspaper Ha'aretz said the Egyptians also demanded an initial Israeli withdrawal to six miles east of the canal and a later pullback to the strategic Mitla and Gidi Passes in the Sinai Desert.

Davar, which usually reflects the views of the government, said the disengagement issue would probably have to be taken up at the Geneva peace conference next month.

As the Egyptian-Israeli talks got underway, U.N. spokesman Rudolf Stadjuhar said that in addition to troop withdrawals, Yariv and Gamassy planned to discuss the movement of supplies to Suez City and Cairo's 3rd Army, both encircled by Israeli troops, and arrangements for a battlefield search for missing soldiers.

Against the background of the Israeli-Egyptian talks, the Israeli government Sunday accepted a U. S. offer to attend the five-nation peace talks Dec. 18 that may be held in Geneva.

Prime Minister Golda Meir told a gathering of British Jews at the Knesset (parliament) Sunday that a feeling existed for more than two days at the beginning of the war Oct. 6 that Israel might lose. She said Israel had been surprised by Egypt and Syria because the country had lulled itself into thinking the Arabs would not attack.

Activist Claims Cong Have Pioneer Spirit

NEW YORK (UPI) — Antiwar activist Cora Weiss says she found a pioneering spirit in the Viet Cong-held territories of South Vietnam similar to the society-building efforts at the Kibbutz farm cooperatives of Israel.

Mrs. Weiss, who just returned from a four-week visit to North Vietnam and the Communist-held areas of South Vietnam told of an American legacy of bomb craters, unexploded mines and the hulks of downed planes on the land. She said rusted bomb fragments cut the bare feet of children and hooves of buffalo used in plowing.

Out of the debris, she said, the Provisional Revolutionary Government has begun a widerranging program of reconstruction. The people are forging tools from mortar casings, bridges from sheet metal and bombs and cooking utensils from downed B52 bombers.

The PRG has also started a program to educate villagers, complete with prized "literacy certificates" for those who learn to read and write, she said.

She said the Communist government has printed new textbooks, opened free medical clinics and reaped the first harvest in seven years.

"There is a tremendous bustling activity in these (Viet Cong) areas. The people seem to have a sense that they are building a new society out of the ruins," said Mrs. Weiss, who spent a good deal of her trip in the heavily bombed Quang Tri province. "It reminds me of the Kibbutz life in the early days of Israel. There is that same pioneering spirit."

The peasant villages are highly organized and divided into small communes, said Mrs. Weiss. A loudspeaker wakes the people at 5 a.m. with music. Then there is a program of exercises, breakfast, and work.

At night, there is school for the adults. Everyone who can read or write has been drafted as a teacher in an effort to make a dent in the high illiteracy rate.

"I noticed the people are particularly enthusiastic and proud about turning the war waste in to useable products," she said. "They have woven handbags out of yellow and red electrical wire taken from minefields along the McNamara Line. They plant flowers in mortar casings and make scarves from nylon parachutes. They even pack rice in leftover American sandbags."

Mrs. Weiss said she saw hundreds of foreigners in the streets of Hanoi and that new diplomatic personnel were arriving from Indonesia, France, Morocco, Britain, Canada, Cuba and other countries.

North Vietnamese and PRG officials as well as the Laotian ambassador to Hanoi told Mrs. Weiss that virtually all known American POWs had been released from both countries. They also said they had no knowledge of the long list of those missing in action submitted by the U.S. Government.

Mills Will Fill Governor's Seat

SACRAMENTO (UPI) - A balding, softspoken former historian will serve as California's governor for two days this week.

He is Senate President Pro Tem James R. Mills of San Diego.

Mills, a Democrat, becomes acting governor by law when the governor and lieutenant governor are out of the state.

Gov. Ronald Reagan is on a trip to the Far East. And when Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke visits Phoenix Friday and Saturday for a lieutenat governor's conference, Mills will be chief executive of the nation's most populous state for two days.

LAURENCE HARVEY

Actor Dies Of Cancer In London

LONDON (UPI) - Actor Laurence Harvey died of cancer at his London home last night, a spokesman said today. Harvey was 45.

Harvey, who costarred with such actresses as Elizabeth Taylor in more than 40 movie roles, had been ill for about 18 months.

Born in Lithuania, Harvey's real name was Larushak Mischa Skikne. He arrived in England in 1946 after serving for three years in the South African army.

He first made his name with the Royal Shakespeare Company at Stratford-upon-Avon, appearing in a wide variety of Shakespearian roles - from Romeo to a high-comedy Orlando in "As You Like It."

Stage appearances in London and New York followed, and Harvey played alternately on American and British stages.

He made his first movie, "House of Darkness," in 1947, and thereafter starred in such films as "Butterfield 8,""The Manchurian Candidate,""I Am a Camera,""The Alamo" and many others.

His marriage to Actress Margaret Leighton ended in divorce in 1961, as did his second marriage to Joan Cohn ten years later.

His third wife, model Paulene Stone, abandoned her career last month to devote her full time to nursing Harvey at their home in Hampstead, North London.

Elizabeth Taylor visited him there. So did actor Rex Harrison and Harvey's close friend, playwright Wolf Mankowitz. Harvey was working until he died on the script of a movie he planned to shoot next year, his agent said.

Harvey underwent surgery in May in an attempt to halt his cancer. He had cobalt ray treatment in Los Angeles later.

His agent said the funeral service Wednesday would be private.

Last Arabian Crude Arrives

The ship was the last tanker to be loaded before Saudi Arabia and other Arab nations imposed their oil embargo.

Standard Oil still has interests in Iran which has not joined the embargo. But it was not immediately known if some of the Iranian crude oil will be coming to West Coast ports.

Papadopoulos Is Ousted In Bloodless Greek Coup

ATHENS (UPI) - Sources close to the new regime in Greece said today they launched a bloodless coup to topple President George Papadopoulos because the military government could never win elections promised by Papadopoulos for 1974.

The sources said the 50-year-old leader of the coup, Brig. Gen. Dimitrios Ioannides, commander of the military police, was opposed to the political liberalization policy pursued by Papadopoulos since Greece was declared a republic last May.

Papadopoulos himself was reported held under house arrest by the army.

The new government has announced no new plans for elections. Sources said it was unlikely any would be held by 1974 as Papadopoulos had promised.

"Ioannides, having his own intelligence service operating through ESA (the military police), felt the pulse of the people and knew that free and fair elections promised by Papadopoulos by 1974 could not have been won by the regime," the sources said.

PHAEDON GYZIKIS
Installed as president

Greek newspapers, published today without prior censorship, hailed the coup with banner headlines reading, "Papadopoulos T h r o w n Out" and "Papadopoulos Regime Overthrown."

The sources said Ioannides, commander of the ESA for the last six years, pushed aside his own loyalty to Papadopoulos to bring the president down in the face of his pledge to hold free parliamentary elections in 1974.

"If elections were to be unfair or not free, why hold them at all," Ioannides was quoted by his colleagues.

Ioannides, Greece's new "behind-the-scenes" strongman, planned the takeover which a communique said was carried out because Papadopoulos was "trying to fool the Greek people" with plans for free elections.

The toppled strongman, who crushed a student-worker uprising the week before, fell victim to the same type of bloodless coup he used to seize power as an army colonel six and one-half years ago.

Army tanks crunched into Athens in the pre-dawn hours yesterday but were not needed in the takeover. Troops and military cadets seized the government without firing a shot. They took over the communications building, parliament, radio stations and ministries.

The bloodless takeover contrasted with the previous weekend's abortive student-worker rebellion put down by the army at a cost of 12 killed and about 150 injured.

Space Agency Makes Final Crucial Adjustments In Jupiter Approach

MOUNTAIN VIEW (UPI) - Just a week before Pioneer 10's arrival at Jupiter, the space agency fired the craft's thrusters today in final adjustments to make sure it will fly right.

A tiny mistake now or tomorrow and it will be too late for corrections. Any further firing of thrusters would destroy an important experiment.

This is because the spacecraft itself serves as an instrument which celestial mechanics experts will employ to determine the weight of Jupiter's 12 moons and how the planet mass is distributed.

The moons and the giant planet will affect the spindly, 570-pound spacecraft's trajectory, and the amount of change will be the basis for the calculations.

So accurate is the method that the masses of Jupiter's four largest moons-not even known until Galileo spotted them in 1610 with his telescope -can be figured with an error of only 1 per cent.

Pioneer's trajectory is tracked by Deep Space Network stations at Goldstone, Calif., Madrid, Spain, and Canberra, Australia. How much the trajectory is affected by gravities will verify results from 11 instruments on board Pioneer.

Altogether, for example, the data should estimate the flattening of Jupiter's polar caps of frozen methane within a half mile. Jupiter is 1,000 times the volume of earth.

In thruster firing today, Pioneer's attitude was tweaked one-tenth degree at a time in little bursts. The firing was intended to point Pioneer's parabolic antenna and radio beam exactly at earth.

After Pioneer passes its target next Monday, a point 81,000 miles from the cloud tops, and continues away from the planet, the thrusters can be fired again.

Now 4.6 million miles from Jupiter and half billion from earth, Pioneer is the first spacecraft to voyage beyond Mars to explore the outer planets. After Jupiter it is scheduled to pass orbits of Saturn, Uranus and Neptune before becoming the first man-made object to escape the solar system.

Campaign Fund Unit Is Formed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) - Attorney General Evelle Younger is forming a special unit to investigate possible future irregularities in campaign finance reporting.

Younger declared yesterday that under a new law which takes effect Jan. 1 his office "has been given primary jurisdiction over many aspects of campaign finance reporting in California."

The law requires more detailed identification of sources of campaign funds. It also requires the names of persons who contribute above $100. Currently the names do not have to be disclosed unless the contribution is over $500.

Younger's comments were made in a tape-recording prepared for broadcast yesterday.

Ben-Gurion Still In Poor Condition

TEL AVIV (UPI) - Doctors attending former Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion, partially paralyzed by a stroke Nov. 18, said he remained in serious condition today.

"No significant change has occurred" since a weekend report that Ben-Gurion was experiencing "fogging of consciousness," a drop in blood pressure and pulse, doctors at Sheba medical center said.

The Good Life: Greater Trust In Changing Of Self

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the ninth of 20 essays by leading men in the world's academic community. The writer of this essay is resident fellow at the Center for Studies of the Person, La Jolla, Calif. Herein he discusses many issues concerned with what we call "the good life.")

By CARL R. ROGERS
Distributed by Copley News Service

CARL R. ROGERS
Important process

From my experience with young people, with individuals in encounter groups, and in psychotherapy, I have become convinced that we are working out a new definition of the good life. I want to give you my perception of this new goal as I see it emerging in our country, and perhaps in Western culture generally.

But first let me remind you that this has always been a debatable issue for mankind. The "good life" has had very different meanings for different groups and in different ages. For some it has meant a life given over to meditation — the holy man on the mountaintop. In sharp contrast, to others it has meant a life of achievement —gaining wealth, status, knowledge or power.

For many it has meant strict adherence to a creed, a set of rules or principles — whether found in the Bible, the Koran or emanating from a religious leader. For still others it has meant selfless dedication to a cause outside of themselves — Christian missionary work, communism or Hitler's German youth. For some it has been the indulgence of every pleasurable appetite, with the slogan "Eat, drink, and be merry, for tomorrow we die."

These examples indicate that the "good life" is not some known, fixed, timeless goal, the same for all, but is a matter of choice.

I trust that this quick review will cause you to be thoughtfully critical as you read what follows, which is my perception of the good life as I see more and more people defining it today. What I say is not based on scholarly or philosophical abstractions. It is based on years of intimate acquaintance with the inner life of others as they have willingly exposed their inmost desires in personal discussions, in the close relationship of therapy and in the intimacy of encounter groups.

To an ever increasing number of people the desire which is strongest can be stated in this way: "I want to be a process in which I am becoming my deepest, truest self."

Note that the desire is to become a process.

It is not a desire to achieve a fixed state — whether a state of happiness, or wealth or even oneness with the universe. Continual change is the essence of the goal. This is certainly in line with the trend of today's culture, which is toward ever-accelerating change, brought about by the incredible (and often frightening) advances in our technology.

But it is perhaps the first time in history that personal goals have embodied changingness as a primary element. In individual living, in man-woman relationships, even in our place of living, we expect change and process to be central. Let me express it in personal terms: "I do not expect to be the same person a year from now that I am today; nor do I expect my marriage to be the same; and I am not sure that I will be living in the same home."

Gone are the days when people married "and lived happily ever after."

Gone are the days when a man worked at the same task in the same place for all of his active life. Gone are the days when the rules of behavior and the standards of morality remained fixed and certain throughout one's life. All is in flux, and we are accommodating to this by choosing to be — as individuals — an adaptive, relativistic process, rather than an unchanging self.

But clearly a process must move in some direction. What are the directions which help to define, for many, the meaning of the good life? Several directions seem to stand out.

In the first place I have found that when the individual is free to choose the kind of process person he wants to be, he opts for movement toward an openness to all of his experience.

Let me explain. We are continually experiencing — the changes in our bodily processes, our feelings, our thoughts, all the multitude of flow which goes on within our skin. We are also experiencing the continuously altering stimuli from our outer environment — not only the physical environment, but the social as well — the slight snub from this person, the envy of that one, the love of another, the frightening domination of someone in authority. We are becoming highly aware persons, conscious of these multiple pulls and prods. We are also becoming aware of our feelings — the resentment, the fear, the affection, the anger, the jealousy — any one of which may be uppermost in any given moment.

As we are more aware of these changing reactions, we are also more willing to take the risk of expressing them when we feel it appropriate — and increasingly we take the chance that it is appropriate.

Hence, many people today are choosing to be more open to their experience, with all the discomfort that that involves, for it is not easy to recognize that you are jealous of a colleague when you "should" be approving of him, or that you are angry at your wife when you "should" be feeling love.

This means that a growing number are deeply opposed to sham, to hypocrisy, to wearing a facade. We feel contempt for political leaders who say one thing and act very differently; we do not easily tolerate the teacher who wears the mask of an instructor all day, putting it off only when leaving the classroom; we are skeptical of marriages that are always "peachy-keen," hiding the tensions underneath.

This is truly an enormous change when we consider that many people, and a number of cultures, live entirely in terms of "keeping face" — presenting a correct but false facade to the world, no matter how much inner turmoil is being concealed. Instead we are choosing to move — and it is a slow and lifetime task — toward being more aware of, and more openly expressive of, any persistent inner reaction, whether the world regards it as positive or negative, constructive or destructive. We believe that even destructive impulses if expressed when they first occur, rather than being compressed by repression, will be healthy in the long run.

A second direction I perceive is toward a greater trust on one's own self. In a sense this is implied in what I have said.

The emerging modern individual places his confidence not in society's norms, nor religion's rules, nor parents' dictates, but in his own changing experience as it occurs within himself. He is, in a very deep sense, his own highest authority. He chooses his own way.

This does not mean that he is sure he will make no mistakes. Quite the contrary. But as he finds that the consequences of his choices are not rewarding, he has within his own experience the data to reorder his direction. He can modify his errors more easily because he is not acting in terms of some supposedly infallible external guide, but in terms of his own inner reactions which he knows to be fallible and only approximate in their accuracy. So it is not so devastating to admit, "This choice was mistaken. I see now, with such openness as I have been able to achieve, that another course is preferable."

Thus the guide of conduct is the ever changing flow of inner experience. The person gradually develops an increasing trust in his own capacity for making choices. He is less and less guided by "You ought to—" and "You should—" as these exhortations flood in from the external world. He takes them into account as data conveying society's wishes, but he is not ruled by them.

The views presented in these articles are those of the writers, and do not necessarily reflect the views of this newspaper, Copley News Service, the colleges and universities involved, or the National Endowment for the Humanities.

What I am saying helps to account for another direction which is evident. The good life is no longer defined for us by institutions. There is in fact, a growing distrust of institutions — of government, law officials, the church, our schools and college, and even the institution of marriage. The individual is more and more standing up to enormous institutional pressures, saying, in effect, "I trust myself and my experiencing of the total situation of the moment — my inner reactions and my experience of these outside forces — more than I trust the institutional conclusions."

I need not add that this has enormous implications — personal, cultural and philosophical.

A final direction I would stress in this emerging person is a thrust toward community. In the midst of a culture becoming more dehumanized, more alienated, this person is not content to be a stranger. He is following his own deep drive — a tendency I believe inherent in the human species — toward community. He wants to be known, accepted, close. So we see a burgeoning development of communes, of encounter groups, of "underground churches" — all of them attempts to come into close, sharing, interpersonal relationships, where one is not anonymous but unique and specific, yet related. These movements seem to help define one of the most profound aspects of the good life — to be fully known, and to be accepted for the process that one is.

It is doubtless evident that this new definition of the good life is built upon a basic trust in the constructive potential of the human organism. It is only on that basis that it makes sense to think of the good life as a process of becoming; as a movement toward greater openness to what is, within and without; as a greater trust in one's own self, one's own experiencing, even when that puts the individual at odds with our institutions; and as a thrust toward deeper communication and intimacy with one's fellows. Yet it is that definition which is emerging more and more frequently.

Last Talmadge Sister Is Dead

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) - Constance Talmadge, last of the three Talmadge sisters who were stars of the silent films, will be buried tomorrow.

She and her sisters, Norma and Natalie, were celebrities in the 1920s for their films and running marital adventures.

Constance was married four times. Three marriages ended in divorce. Her fourth marriage was to New York industrialist Walter Giblin, who died in 1964.

The biggest star of the three was Norma Talmadge. She was married for 17 years to producer Joseph Schenck, who built her career. She divorced Schenck in 1934 to marry comedian George Jessel, and divorced Jessel five years later. She married Dr. Carvel James in 1946 and died in 1957.

San Francisco Grocer Is Slain

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) - The owner of a small grocery was found shot and killed yesterday in the back room of his store.

Police said the body of Saleem Hassan Erakat, 53, was found in his store by a customer. His hands were tied and he was shot in the head, they said.

An estimated $1,300 in receipts was stolen from the cash register, investigators said.

Erakat owned the store 13 years and was patronized by workers in nearby Civic Center and city and federal offices.

Only United can take you to the East from all three Bay Area airports.

Another reason more people choose the friendly skies than any other airline.

More than ever, the airport you live closest to is the airport you can fly out of to the East on United.

We've arranged our schedule so that it's convenient for you to fly out of any of the 3 Bay Area airports.

For instance, on United, you can fly to 94 cities from San Francisco International Airport. That's more cities than any other airline offers from San Francisco.

We also fly to 54 cities from Oakland—and from San Jose to 40 cities.

So the next time you're flying out of the Bay Area to the East, don't go out of your way to get where you're going.

Just call United at (800) 792-0707. Or, have your Travel Agent book you on United.

ABOUT THOSE LOW BLOOD SUGAR BLUES

Dentists are now learning to watch for symptoms of low blood sugar (hypoglycemia.) And physicians who have ignored its seriousness are beginning to catch up, warning that sugar and carbohydrates must be avoided by hypoglycemics. Instead, they require an abundance of good protein and vitamin-mineral supplements and sometimes, special professional help for thyroid and adrenal glands.

Dr. Ruth Ray, leading endocrinologist, practicing in the Bay Area, has been saying on radio and TV lately that for low blood sugar, along with a carefully planned diet, these supplements are essential: Vitamin B3 (niacin or niacinamide); vitamin C; the full B-Complex, including B12; vitamins A, D, & E, in addition to a multivatimin formula. Dr. Ray recommends huge dosages in many case. And nuts and seeds, too.

FATAL FIRE — Strips of bedding hang from the charred window sill of the second-floor apartment in which a 24-year-old San Rafael man met a fiery death last night, either at his own hands or by someone else's. A charred mattress and springs remained today outside the building at 410 D Street, where Vincent A. Marcovich died.

24-Year-Old Man Dies In Fire In His San Rafael Apartment

A 24-year-old man was burned to death in a fire that raged through his San Rafael apartment last night. Investigators said the man may have deliberately set himself afire, or have been the victim of a fire attack.

The body of Vincent A. Marcovich of 410 D Street, Apt. 6, was found badly burned near the center of the dwelling's combination living and bedroom.

Coroner's Deputy Bill J. Thomas said bits of charred clothing gathered from Marcovich's body reeked of gasoline as did nearby bedclothing.

Police said they also are investigating the possibility of arson.

Officers discovered an empty plastic container that smelled of gasoline in a corner of the room. They indicated that the blaze began in the center of the room near the body.

After a neighbor telephoned the alarm at 9:31 p.m., firemen arrived to find the second-story apartment in flames. Twelve fire fighters manning three trucks quelled the blaze within 10 minutes of their arrival.

The fire caused $6,100 damage to the two-room dwelling. Other residents of the six-unit building escaped unharmed. Slight smoke damage was reported in adjacent apartment 5.

Marcovich leaves his mother, Hazel Marcovich of San Rafael. Funeral arrangements were pending today at Keaton's Mortuary in San Rafael.

Mushroom Poisoning Reported

Three persons were treated at Marin General Hospital Saturday night for mushroom poisoning, but none was seriously stricken, according to a hospital spokesman.

They reportedly had eaten wild mushrooms at a dinner party in San Rafael.

Linda Zuber, 25; George Pikkarainen, 38, and Ricardo Pascual, 28, were treated at the hospital at 11:35 p.m. (The hospital did not have their home addresses.)

There has been no death due to wild mushrooms in Marin in almost two years, but Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer, warned again today that "the only safe place to get mushrooms is at a reputable market."

In recent years, spores of poisonous mushrooms which originally came from Europe, have infested Bay Area patches of wild mushrooms, and it is virtually impossible to tell the safe ones from the deadly variety, according to botanists.

Slavery Far From Extinct In Many Parts Of World

By PETER C. STUART
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

Slavery. The very word carries an 18th-century ring of slave galleons and trading blocks.

But 20th-century slavery still fetters millions — as much as 1 per cent of the world's population — in at least 40 countries.

The services of a child reportedly can be bought at 15 pounds (about $37) for 10 years in many Eastern lands from Lebanon to Indonesia.

Fifty schoolgirls from Ghana were officially conceded earlier this year to have been sold to buyers in Lebanon.

Four 16-year-old Asian girls of Persian descent have endured three years of forced marriage to members of the revolutionary council on the East African island of Zanzibar.

Outlawed by the United Nations and every nation, slavery has been spared international policing since World War II — until recently.

The little-known UN Subcommission on Prevention of Discrimination and Protection of Minorities voted at Geneva to assemble the first piece of anti-slavery enforcement machinery in UN history.

But critics expect any resulting recommendations to be squashed at higher levels in the UN.

Among the skeptics is the London-based Anti-Slavery Society, the 135-year-old group which almost singlehandedly has kept the anti-slavery movement alive.

Society secretary J. R. P. Montgomery, a swagger-stick straight ex-Army colonel who vividly remembers the debt bondage of camp boys during wartime service in Burma, comments:

"They are saying, 'Here's your machinery, now go away.'"

The Anti-Slavery Society would have preferred a permanent adviser — a man or woman of world stature to probe slavery full-time. But it pledges the new part-time panel its full support.

Until now, slavery has been an international shuttlecock, bounced among several UN agencies. Despite 85 nations' ratification of the 1956 UN convention abolishing slavery, apathy and diplomatic courtesy have squelched enforcement.

Chattel slavery — an employee "owned" by his employer, as in the pre-Civil War American South — is believed declining, its victims decreasing to tens of thousands.

But four similar practices also banned by the UN convention are estimated by the Anti-Slavery Society to be flourishing:

1. Debt bondage. This form of indefinite personal service to repay a debt is rated as perhaps the most elusive but least obnoxious of the four. Reported to be widespread in India and Burma.

2. Serfdom. Such "slavery to the land," by contrast, often is practiced quite openly. Serfs cultivated opium poppies in Afgahanistan as recently as 1968, and were punished for underproduction by flogging, branding, multilation or loss of a child. The government began reforms last year. Also alleged to exist in some large South American estates.

3. Exploitation of children. Sham adoption and other devices to exploit young people for labor are reported in Latin America, the Middle East, West Africa, and Southeast Asia.

4. Servile forms of marraige. Despite the theoretical rights for wives under Muslim law, forced and "bought" marriages are said to persist in some 30 Islamic and part-Islamic countries.

The offending nations cover a global band astride the equator — reaching through the Philippines; Southeast and Southern Asia; Asia Minor; the Persian Gulf and southern Arabia; North, Central, and West Africa; the Amazon and Andes regions of South America, and Central America.

Shrinking this band of slavery, says the Anti-Slavery Society, requires four conditions: a legislative ban; an efficient and uncorrupt police and judiciary; aroused public opinion, and a society able to absorb freed slaves.

Cause Of Death Sought Of San Quentin Inmate

A San Quentin inmate, serving time for three prison murders, died Saturday at the prison hospital after he was found unconscious in his cell in a segregated section.

It was unknown pending the results of an autopsy whether Eddie Moreno, 31, of Los Angeles County died of natural causes. No marks were found on his body, officers said.

Morena was found collapsed in his cell in the maximum security area in the North Block at 12:45 p.m., according to William D. Nyberg, prison information officer. The convict died in the hospital at 2:19 p.m.

He was first sent to prison in 1968 after conviction in Los Angeles for grand theft. Then in 1971 he was convicted of second degree murder in connection with a death at Folsom Prison in Sacramento County. Last June he was convicted of the murders of two persons at the California Conservation Center in Susanville. Since that time he had been confined at San Quentin, where he was not allowed out among the general prison population, Nyberg said.

In an unrelated incident, another San Quentin inmate, Babilah McCarthy, 26, was reported in good condition today after being stabbed four times yesterday.

Boston Strangler Slain In Prison

WALPOLE, Mass. (UPI) - Albert H. DeSalvo, the man who confessed to being the Boston Strangler but was never brought to trial for any of the 13 murders, was apparently murdered at Walpole State Prison, Corrections Department officials reported today.

John McLean, a spokesman for the Corrections Department, said it was not known immediately how or when he died but he apparently was stabbed.

did you take?" she was asked.

She replied angrily, "I used my head —it was the only one I had."

The White House's announcement last week that the 18 minutes of tape contained nothing but a hum prompted Sirica to ask for the tapes for safekeeping. Before that the judge and White House lawyers were in the process of negotiating a step-by-step turnover of the tapes.

Another administration source reported that Miss Woods has hired an attorney, Charles B. Rhyne, former president of the American Bar Association and a former Duke Law School classmate and old friend of President Nixon.

In other developments:

Sen. Charles McC. Mathias, R-Md., said yesterday that President Nixon probably will be impeached if he fails to respond to "the general outcry for full disclosure" on Watergate. He was interviewed on CBS'"Face the Nation."

The American Civil Liberties Union published a 56-page handbook called, "Why President Richard Nixon Should Be Impeached", advising citizens how to lobby for that. Four Washington lawyers published a 169-page study giving 28 alleged grounds for trying Nixon in the courts or impeaching him.

Some of the GOP governors whom Nixon told in Memphis, Tenn., last week that he had no more Watergate bombshells to disclose, expressed disappointment on learning of the 18-minute tape gap. Said Gov. Dan Evans of Washington Saturday: "... he just didn't square with us, level with us."

Attorney Robert Washak of Beverly Hills said he might ask Donald Nixon, the President's brother, to give a sworn deposition about government surveillance which the President has said was put on Donald Nixon's phone.

OBITUARIES

Dante M. Tognoli Dies At 65

Dante M. Tognoli of Fairfax, meat-packing executive and sportsman, died yesterday in a San Francisco hospital after a lengthy illness. He was 65.

Tognoli was born in St. Helena but moved to San Francisco as a youngster and attended schools there.

He went to work as a delivery truck driver for Del Monte Meat Co. and in 1944 became owner of the company. He also was a partner in Provision, Farmers and Mohawk meat firms, all in the Bay Area.

An ardent sportsman, Tognoli rode horses for many years, enjoyed golf and most recently, had become a powerboat enthusiast. He participated in many offshore boat races, and last year he won the Long Beach Hennessy Cup classic in his boat, Dante's Inferno.

He also was a founder of the Big Hand Golf Tournament, whose proceeds went to underprivileged children.

Tognoli had lived in Marin about 30 years. The family home is at 406 Cascade Drive.

He is survived by his wife, Melba; a son, Stefano of Alameda; a daughter, Linda Razo of Carpenteria; a stepson, Leon V. Castagnoli of Durango, Col.; two sisters, Mrs. Von Adams of Portland, Ore., and Mrs. Alba Cerelli of San Francisco; a brother, Elbi Tognoli of San Francisco, and three grandchildren.

Mass of the Resurrection will be offered at 11 a.m. Wednesday at Sts. Peter and Paul's Church, San Francisco. Entombment will be in Holy Cross Cemetery.

The Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Halsted and Co., San Francisco.

The family prefers memorial contributions to the French Hospital Research Foundation.

MRS. BRENNAN

The name of Dr. Edwin P. Brennan of San Rafael was misspelled in an obituary Thursday for his mother, Celeste P. Brennan of San Rafael. Mrs. Brennan, 75, died unexpectedly on Wednesday in her home.

ALBERT R. LARSEN

Funeral for Albert R. Larsen, 36, of Larkspur, a self-employed landscape contractor, will be at 11 a.m. tomorrow at the Chapel of the Hills in San Anselmo.

Larsen, of 48 Frances Avenue, died unexepctedly Saturday morning at a local hospital after complaining of chest pains at home, according to the coroner's office.

Larsen was a resident of Marin for 10 years and a member of the Corte Madera Lions Club. He was a native of Denmark and had lived in California 14 years.

Surviving are his wife, Judith Larsen of Larkspur, a daughter, Sylvia, and a son, Steven, both of Larkspur; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Laurits Larsen of Denmark; a sister, Ann Grete Miller of Denmark; and three brothers, Karl R. nd Soren R. Larsen of Denmark, and Jens R. Larsen of Vacaville.

Burial will be at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

Firm For Impact Report Is Sought

Which firm to select to do an environmental impact report on a proposed Tiburon downtown development project by Sequoia Pacific of Santa Ana will be discussed tonight at 8 o'clock by the city council at city hall.

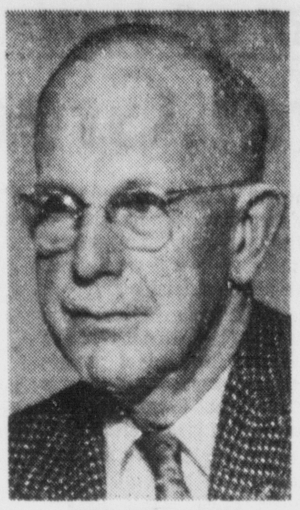
City Mgr. Robert L. Kleinert said that councilman M. Carlisle Becker, who headed a council selection committee, will report on nine consulting firms interviewed for the iob.

The Sequoia Pacific development would be built on 36 acres owned by Southern Pacific Railroad and would include residential housing, offices, an inn-conference center and retail shops.

Novato Council To Consider Rezoning

The Novato City Council will consider rezoning 94 acres in the northeast sector of the city to bring the property into conformance with the Novato General Plan at 7:35 p.m. tomorrow at the Novato Community House.

The land, zoned agricultural and proposed for residential, consists of 48 acres north of Plum Street and east of Rudnick Avenue, and 46 acres south of Atherton Avenue, east of Bugeia Lane.



JOHN CARL UHTE

JOHN CARL UHTE

John Carl Uhte, longtime Fairfax resident and a former town official, died Saturday at home after a brief illness. He was 81.

Uhte, long active in civic affairs, served on the Fairfax Planning Commission in the early 1960s and was Fairfax Building Inspector in 1961-62.

He was born in San Francisco and moved to Fairfax in 1921, residing at 51 Bothin Road.

He retired from the San Francisco school system in 1956 after serving for 25 years as a shop and manual arts teacher. He served as a substitute teacher of shopwork in Marin schools until 1964.

Uhte also taught driver's training for many years, and at the age of 75 served as instructor for a senior citizen safe driving course.

He was active in the Scouts, and served on the executive board of the local Scout council.

He was also a member of the Marin County Senior Coordinating Council, the Marin County Retired Teachers Association, and the Fairfax senior citizens group.

He is survived by his wife, Mabel; a daughter, Mrs. Paul Savko of Arizona; a son, Warren R. Uhte of Seattle, Wash., and four grandchildren.

Memorial service will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday at the Fairfax Community Church. Burial will be private.

The family prefers memorial contributions to the Lick Wilmerding School in San Francisco; the Fairfax Community Church; the Marin County Senior Coordinating Council, or the Marin Council of Boy Scouts.

DOROTHY M. DARRINGTON

Dorothy M. Darrington, longtime Marin resident and sales clerk, died yesterday in a local hospital after a lengthy illness. She was 59.

Mrs. Darrington was born in North Crandon, Wis., but came to California with her family as a young child. She had lived in Marin County the past 36 years.

The family home is at 69 Hickory Road, Fairfax.

Mrs. Darrington was a sales clerk for Penny's in San Rafael for 18 years.

She was a member of Fairfax Chapter No. 594, Order of Eastern Star, and the United Ancient Order of Druids.

She is survived by her husband, Arthur D. Darrington; two sons, Donald K. Darrington of Petaluma and Ronald W. Darrington of Kentfield; three sisters, Mrs. Mamie Armbruster and Mrs. Bridget Hoyes, both of Auburn, Placer County, and Mrs. Zelphia Dobson of Coos Bay, Ore.; a brother, William Bonk of Auburn, and five grandchildren.

Funeral will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday at the Chapel of the Hills in San Anselmo. Inurnment will be private.

The family prefers memorial contributions to the Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children in San Francisco.

DELIA HOPPE

Delia M. Hoppe, 97, of Novato, a longtime resident of California, died yesterday at a local hospital after a short illness.

Mrs. Hoppe, widow of Joseph Hoppe, had lived with her daughter, Josephine Baccaglio, in Novato for 20 years. She was a native of Switzerland and had lived in California for 77 years.

A Mass of the Resurrection will be celebrated at 10 a.m. Wednesday at Our Lady of Loretto Church, Novato. Burial will be at Calvary Cemetery, Petaluma. Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Keaton's Chapel of Marin, Novato. The family prefers memorial contributions to Our Lady of Loretto or St. Anthony's Church building funds.

MARION HOLCOMB

Private funeral for Marion (Jim) Holcomb, 50, of San Anselmo, a safety engineer for the state of California, was held today.

Holcomb of 28 Carlson Avenue, died at a local hospital Saturday after a long illness.

He was a member of the Ingleside Sportsmen's Club in San Francisco and chairman of the District Council No. 7 of the Associated Sportsmen of California.

He was a native of San Francisco and had lived in Marin for 13 years.

Surviving are his wife, Joan B. Holcomb of San Anselmo, two daughters, Judy Craven of San Francisco and Marianne Holcomb of San Anselmo, a brother, Jay Holcomb of Novato, and two grandchildren.

The family prefers that memorial donations be to the Associated Sportsmen of California, 2636 Judah Street, San Francisco.

MARY CRONAN

Mary Elizabeth Cronan, 93, died Saturday at a local convalescent hospital after a long illness.

Miss Cronan was born in San Francisco and lived there for many years. She had lived in Marin for 36 years.

She was a retired chief clerk for the Southern Pacific Hospital in San Francisco, where she worked 45 years.

Miss Cronan was preceded in death by two sisters, Jane L. Cronan and Sister Mary Regina.

Mass of the Resurrection will be celebrated at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow at St. Raphael's Church in San Rafael. Burial will be in Holy Cross Cemetery, Colma. The Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. today at Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael.

BOOTY — Tiburon Policeman Douglas Miller examines bolt cutters and other loot found Saturday in a Tiburon apartment inhabited by five persons arrested following an aborted burglary of a San Rafael bowling alley. Stereo equipment and clothing valued at about $7,000 found in the apartment at 75 B Red Hill Circle have been linked to several recent Tiburon auto burglaries.

Gas Shutdown Expected To Hurt Nevada Casinos

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI) — Nevada's legal gambling industry will suffer as a result of Sunday closing of gas stations, casino spokesmen said today.

Sens. Alan Bible and Howard Cannon said they were disappointed in the Sunday closure, and Gov. Mike O'Callaghan said he would "urgently request clarification" of the order.

"Nevadans can agree with many of the President's recommendations in view of the national emergency, but the shutdown of retail gasoline supplies on Sundays might curtail weekend visits to Nevada by out-of-state visitors," O'Callaghan said.

He said he was not opposed to the requirement that stations close down one day per week.

"Our point is that we would like our gasoline retailers to decide which day to close—possibly Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday," he said.

Bible and Cannon made that recommendation to the President recently.

"Obviously Nevadans want to do their fair share during this crisis," Bible said, "but they have every right to expect the President to see to it that the entire nation shares the hardships fairly and equitably."

"Tourism is as essential to Nevada as the automobile industry is to Michigan," Bible said.

Northern Nevada casino representatives said it would be possible for Bay Area visitors, who make up the bulk of local tourism, to drive there Friday or Saturday and then gas up so they would be able to get home.

"That would be one way," said Les Kofoed, director of the Gaming Industry Association. "I guess if there's any consolation, it is that we (casinos) are not alone because this is going to be disastrous in other areas—ski areas and recreation areas other than our own. There isn't any question but that it is going to hurt."

Robbins Cahill, director of the Nevada Resort Association, which represents the big casinos on the Las Vegas strip, said 60 to 65 per cent of the Las Vegas tourist market comes to town by car, mostly from Southern California.

He said Northern California points were close enough to Reno so visitors could gas up before 9 p.m. Saturday and be assured of having enough to get back home.

"But it's pretty hard to get back to Los Angeles on one tank of gas," he said.

He said Southern Nevada would have to look more to trains, and he hoped bus service would not be limited. Amtrak does not serve the city, and Cahill said he wasn't sure if it would be possible to add buses.

"The energy limits will hurt. We'll feel it," he said.

More than half of the revenue the state collects from the gaming industry comes from Clark County.

Ron Smith, director of the Convention and Visitors Bureau of the Greater Reno Chamber of Commerce, said the energy restrictions were certain to have an adverse effect on the local economy. He said the extent would be "pretty difficult to nail down."

He said that during the strike by gas station operators recently, tourists still managed to find gas but the overall total number of visitors was down somewhat.

Five Are In Custody In Burglary Arrests

Two more Tiburon residents have been taken into custody in a series of arrests which began Saturday in San Rafael with an alleged attempt at burglary of a bowling alley and ended in a Tiburon apartment said to be filled with stolen property.

Late Saturday afternoon Tiburon police booked at Marin County Jail Sherry Linda Munger, 22, of 75B Red Hill Circle, and Oddie Eugene Jefferes, 28, of the same address, on suspicion of possession of stolen property, possession of marijuana and possession of opiates for sale.

The two were held in lieu of $50,000 bail and were to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

According to Tiburon police, they found in their three-bedroom apartment at Red Hill Circle small amounts of what was believed to be heroin and cocaine and paraphernalia used by narcotics dealers.

Also found were stereo equipment and clothing valued at about $7,000 and believed to have been taken in several recent auto burglaries in Tiburon.

The trail leading to the apartment began early Saturday morning when San Rafael police answered a burglar alarm at Country Club Bowl on Vivian Street.

A 17-year-old youth, who said he was visiting in Tiburon, was arrested there along with Dennis Jack Munger, 19, Miss Munger's brother, also of the Red Hill Circle address.

Information from the 17-year-old led to the Tiburon apartment, where Tiburon officers arrested David Wayne Sander, 19, who was alleged to have been involved in the burglary.

Ski Resort Owners Moan Gas Shutdown

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gloom and concern today fell like snow over Sierra Nevada ski resorts in the wake of President Nixon's proposal to ban Saturday night and Sunday gasoline sales.

"I think for many resorts it will be a disaster," said Don Schwartz, vice president of the Sugar Bowl ski area.

When informed of Nixon's proposal for the Sunday gas sales ban, another ski operator moaned, "That's just what I needed."

A telephone check of ski resorts yesterday showed that operators expected a decline in attendance especially on weekends when most resorts realize 70 per cent of their income.

The Nixon proposal was also expected to put a large crimp in Northern California's recreation industry and severly affect the Lake Tahoe area.

Nearly two million cars normally enter the Tahoe basin annually with tourists spending $101 million plus another $39 million for gambling. About 80 per cent of an estimated 15,000 to 16,000 jobs in the Tahoe area are geared to serving visitors.

In the Lake Shasta area, one of California's prime hunting, fishing and boating locations, John Reginato of Redding was worried about the Nixon move.

Reginato, director of the Shasta-Cascade Wonderland Association, said the tourist industry in the area has been growing at a rate of 10 per cent a year.

"Now if we're able to hold our own we'll be fortunate," he said.

He asked where will fishermen "get the fuel to go from river to river."

And he expressed concern about the houseboat retail business which has been thriving on the large Northern California lakes.

Nixon's proposed ban on Sunday gasoline sales also applies to boats, private aircraft and recreational vehicles.

Some ski resort operators, while saying they expected a falloff in attendance, tried to view Nixon's proposal with some optimism.

"Skiing is an emotional thing. It's not really rational," said Dave Arriola, marketing director for the Heavenly Valley areas.

He predicted more car pools of skiers and bus charters if diesel fuel is available.

Hans Von Nolde of Squaw Valley predicted black markets in gasoline would spring up and skiers would start the dangerous practice of carrying large cans of gasoline in their car trunks.

The operators also joined Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco, in calling for more "skier" trains.

"There is a possibility of a dramatic loss of jobs and revenue in both California and Nevada," Moscone declared.

A ban on Sunday gas sales, Schwartz said, would "cut very deeply in our ability" to maintain the Sugar Bowl's $400,000 annual payroll.

He declared there are 1.5 million skiers in the California-Nevada area who could be affected by the gas sales ban.

Japan's Auto Makers Losing Copycat Label

By CHARLES E. DOLE
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

LOS ANGELES — If anyone still believes the Japanese auto makers to be copiers alone, then he hasn't seen a Mazda, first volume-built, rotary-engined vehicle to travel the world's highways.

Nor has he heard about Toyota's unique fault-detection system, called ESP.

ESP stands for "electro sensor panel," an on-board diagnostic setup for monitoring 11 vital areas on the running vehicle, from the brake linings in the wheels to the oil level in the engine and the brake and tail-lights behind.

Volkswagen also installs a diagnostic plug on all its cars and expects all its dealerships to be equipped with computerized equipment so that scores of readings can be taken quickly without individualized testings by a mechanic.

Although the Toyota system is far less comprehensive than that used by VW, it is, by contrast, an on-board system and does not require dealership equipment to do the job. The Japanese system is operative whenever the car ignition is turned on. If something is awry, a light tells the motorist what is wrong. The system also checks itself to assure that all the components are working.

Either ESP or VW's diagnostic plug probably will find its way into far more cars during the 1970's. They help pinpoint potential problems before they become deep-rooted and perhaps cause costly damages to an automobile.

The ESP system is being installed as a standard feature on only two of Toyota's 22 models for 1974, the two hardtop Coronas, explains Norman D. Lean, vice-president and chief operating officer for Toyota Motor Sales, USA, importing arm of the largest Japanese vehicle manufacturer.

"It can be incorporated in all Coronas eventually," he adds, "but the company only has enough supply for the hardtops right now." As other car lines are redesigned, the system also can be built into those lines, he says.

On the '74 Corona hardtops ESP keeps a constant check on headlights, taillights, brake lights, and the license-plate light; it also checks the fluid levels in the battery, radiator, engine oil, and windshield washer. It further keeps tabs on brake-lining ear, the vacuum booster, and brake fluid level.

ESP, or a similar system, can be applied to many other components on a car, such as emissions-control equipment, tire pressure, and the compression ratio in the engine. "It can be extended to almost everything," declares Lean.

Asked how much they were willing to pay for ESP if it became an option, reporters at the Toyota '74 news conference here indicated that $50 would be in the ball park but that $150 might be far afield.

The light panel that provides the readings is located on the inside roof of the car. Whether that is the best location, opinions differ.

What is the most valuable check in the 11-light system?

Newsmen voted overwhelmingly for the brake-lining light. The second most popular item was the sensor that checked the engine-oil level.

"ESP could make the public more aware of the operation of his car," suggests Lean. "A vinyl roof and whitewall tires won't make a car run better. But ESP could."

Toyota, the world's third largest carmaker, expects to capture 3 per cent of the total US market in 1974 if it can get the cars. In the '73 model year just ended, the company marketed 320,000 vehicles in the US, about 35,000 of them trucks.

Like automakers in the United States, the Japanese car industry is caught up in a supply problem with major shortages of steel and plastics, for example. At least one auto plant was forced to shut down briefly till more components could be brought in.

BART TICKET

Ecology Center Gift Suggestion

BERKELEY (UPI) — On the first day of Christmas my true love gave to me...one subway ticket?

The Ecology Center is hoping this Christmas will be an ecology oriented one and has drawn up a list of "eco-gifts."

The presents include the Bay Area Rapid Transit system ticket, a fly swatter to use instead of pesticide sprays, and a sweater to wear because the thermostat has been turned down.

Suggestions for childrens' gifts include handmade puppets of nearly extinct animals such as the musk ox and bighorn sheep.

The centers says the gifts should be wrapped in color comics from Sunday newspapers instead of wrapping paper.

"We're kind of thinking that the energy shortage might lead people to take this list seriously and cut down on all of that electric can-opener type of thing," said Kathy Evans, a staff member at the center.

The center is not the only group taking such action.

In San Francisco, you can get two Christmas trees for the price of one at the Guardsmen Christmas tree lot.

One will be the typical freshly cut tree. The other will be a seedling for planting in the yard.

Plane Forced Down In Cuba Being Held

MIAMI (UPI) — A Federal Aviation Administration source says a private Florida plane being detained in Cuba with 16 Scuba divers and crewmen aboard may have been forced down by MIG fighters after violating Cuban air space.

The incident could have been sparked by a mixup in paperwork required for flights over Cuba, the FAA source said. Cuba has asked $11,000 in return for the Americans, saying that is the bill for repairing their airplane and other expenses.

A meeting was called today in Winter Haven, Fla., the plane's home base, between organizers of the diving expedition to the Cayman Islands and State Department officials.

C. Norris Bryan, head of Sportsman's Flights, a Winter Haven charter firm which ran the trip, said he believes the pilot had permission to traverse one of Cuba's two international air corridors on the Miami-to-Grand Cayman flight.

"The pilot called a number in Miami especially for such permission," Bryan said last night. He said he has not been permitted to telephone them, but said Swiss Embassy officials assured him they were all fine and in a Havana hotel.

After a meeting of Winter Haven civic leaders last night, Dr. Victor Valle was named spokesman for a special fund raising drive. He said the State Department indicated the 14 passengers and two crewmen could only be released when $11,000 was deposited in a local bank, and then given to the State Department.

An earlier offer of $5,000 payment had been rejected by the Cuban government, Bryan said. As of this morning, Dr. Valle said $5,500 had been raised.

The pilot of the plane was identified as Al Hikew of Lakeland, Fla., and the copilot as Bob Branson of Bartow, Fla. Also aboard were Charles Glass of Davenport and Dave Cooper, Doyle Kennedy and Fred Roe from Daytona Beach, Fla.

Church Leaders Declare Concern Of Social Issues

CHICAGO (UPI) — Evangelical Christian leaders concluded a Thanksgiving workshop with a declaration of social concern, blaming themselves for remaining "mostly silent" despite a religious obligation to defend the social and economic rights of the poor and oppressed.

About 50 of the leaders issued the declaration yesterday at the end of the three-day workshop.

The statement said:

"We deplore the historic involvement of the church in America with racism and the conspicuous responsibility of the evangelical community for perpetuating the personal attitudes and institutional structures that have divided the body of Christ along color lines.

"Further, we have failed to condemn the exploitation at home and aboard by our economic system.

"We must attack the materialism of our culture and maldistribution of the nation's wealth and services.

"Before God and a billion hungry neighbors, we must rethink our values regarding our present standards of living and promote more just acquisition and distribution of the world's resources.

"Although the Lord calls us to defend the social and economic rights of the poor and the oppressed, we have mostly remained silent."

New Water Device May Prove A Boon

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) — Engineers with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station have developed a simple, cheap machine that may enable millions of farm and rural families to have clean, pure water and also may help relieve the chlorine shortage in the water purification plants of many cities.

Dr. Ed A. Hiler, engineer in charge of development of the machine, says it uses the salts already present in most water to kill germs that may be present in the water. It also clears out particles that give some water color and improves the taste.

Santa Arrives Via Glider At Center

LAGUNA HILLS, Calif. (UPI) — When Santa Claus visited the new Laguna Hills shopping mall, he glided down from a 1,500 feet altitude clinging to a red and white hang glider.

The flying Santa, Jim Rusing, 40, had a walkie-talkie strapped to his bright red outfit and kept up a dialogue—complete with ho-ho-hos—with children and shoppers prior to landing safely in the mall parking lot.

Goodbye To The Single-Family Home

The familiar R-1, R-2 and R-3 residential zoning might vanish in San Rafael, along with the city's planning commission, under the proposed new San Rafael General Plan.

On page VI-2 of the initial general plan report, prepared by consultant Warren W. Jones of Berkeley, appears this:

"Lands in the city would not necessarily be zoned in a manner that is now common to San Rafael and most cities."

The report goes on that in the urban residential area "existing zoning classifications will prevail, subject to those standards of design and development as may be added from time to time. As hamlet plans and specific plans are adopted, new regulations or zoning classifications may be indicated."

"HAMLET" is a word used throughout the report to mean neighborhood (or, perhaps, the consultant's vision of what a neighborhood should be).

In its discussion of the "hamlets," beginning on page III-17, the plan report declares that "higher density housing should be located where adequate existing services and/or public transportation are available." This higher density, it suggests, should be up to "20 units or more per acre."

Application of this would mean that much of San Rafael now zoned R-1 — for single-family dwellings —would become apartment areas. As "hamlet plans" were adopted, the R-1 zoning would vanish, to permit 20 or more units per acre.

Under the "residential analysis procedure" proposed in the plan, each development of five or more dwelling units would be judged on a long series of criteria which the report describes. For this, says the report, the planning department would have to be enlarged. Then, it says:

"THE PLANNING commission, or perhaps a newly constituted board, would be authorized by the city council to make recommendations regarding the approval of residential development proposals."

Elsewhere in the lengthy report, the planning commission is not mentioned at all. Instead, it proposes that the citizen advisory committee which has been working with the consultant be continued to make evaluations and annual plan revisions.

Even the city council would not have control over how many dwelling units were built, however. The report suggests that should be controlled by the county board of supervisors because of its "areawide constituency."

IN LIGHT of these provisions of the proposed general plan, it is not surprising that planning commissioners have expressed some criticism. That criticism no doubt will be muted from now on, however, since commission chairman Jorgen V. Lunding was ousted by the city council for trying to involve the commission in the plan's preparation.

Owners of single-family residences in the city might also be alarmed over the plan, since it would clear the way for apartments in what are now single-family zones.

Nixon's Latest Cabinet Choices Show Change In His Policy

After his huge election victory last year, President Nixon began to shape a very pliant and subordinate cabinet to centralize decision making in the White House.

Watergate has reversed this process. He is returning decision making to the cabinet and he is greatly reducing his power to fire his new appointees.

The political reality is that Mr. Nixon now has nominated for attorney general the salty, independent Nixon critic, Republican Sen. William Saxbe of Ohio — whom he wouldn't dare fire; and special prosecutor Leon Jaworski of Texas, whom he can't fire without the approval of the leaders of Congress.

His presence in the administration is indispensable to Mr. Nixon's recovery of his credibility and leadership. His accomplishments are crucial to President Nixon's survival.

HOW KISSINGER OPERATES. State Department and Foreign Service officers are feeling the impact of the new secretary. He is a hard-driving, demanding boss, but he esteems talent, and those under him will soon find that new ideas will be welcome — and used. The State Department will again become the creative and administering instrument of American foreign policy. Morale is already improved.

Typical of Kissinger is his new directive to U.S. envoys abroad. He is telling them in effect: Send us more analysis and fewer dry facts; keep the cables short, and don't fail to include dissenting opinions.

THOSE BUSY DEMOCRATIC LAWYERS. The greatest irony of all in the Watergate affair is that Democratic attorneys are skillfully and profitably working for both sides.

Lawyers trained in the Justice Department during the administration of President Kennedy make up most of the special prosecutor's staff and others are serving as counsel for most of the Republicans who are under investigation or indictment.

The list is formidable: William Hundley represents former Atty. Gen. John Mitchell; Charles Shaffer represents John Dean; Herbert Miller represents Gordon Liddy; Egil Krogh has Stephen Shulman as his counsel, and Patrick Gray, former acting director of the FBI, has Stephen Sachs. Most served in the Justice Department under Robert Kennedy.

Thus different sets of Kennedy-trained lawyers are serving both the Watergate prosecution and the defense.

HOW TANAKA WAS TRICKED IN MOSCOW. When the Japanese prime minister was recently in Moscow, he assumed he had at least one small concession from the Soviet Union. This was an apparent agreement by Moscow to discuss further return of Japan's Russian-occupied northern islands and to stop harassing Japanese fishermen in nearby waters.

Mr. Tanaka made public the "agreements" in Moscow but discovered when he returned home that they are not contained in the Russian language version of the communique.

RUSSIA AND THE MIDDLE EAST. The best evidence is that the Russians would still prefer no-war-and-no-peace between Israel and the Arabs. They are not saying so very bluntly, but they are dismayed at the negotiating success of Henry Kissinger.

For the first time Prime Minister Golda Meir is referring to the Arabs as Israel's "neighbors," not as Israel's "enemies."

For the first time both sides are committed to begin negotiations soon for a settlement.

The Kremlin oesn't doesn't the new signs of Arab goodwill toward the United States and is fearful of a renewal of Arab distrust of the Soviet Union. Moscow senses a series setback to Russian influence in the Middle East if peace becomes a reality.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Little Need Seen For Wasteful Jet-Hopping

Around the world we have all these wonderful communication devices, television, picture-phone, and regular telephones with which conference calls have already been tried and tested, and yet during this energy crisis bureaucrats and political officials find arguments to burn up precious fuel hopping about in aircraft. Our psychology in relation to governing and ordering with regard to time and pollution is 180 degrees out of phase with need and things at hand.

For what we gain in time, we waste in fuel, and has nothing to do with the means and ends desired, and further in many ways the ends and means of transportation are not that well integrated, and never will be completely free from un-forseen delays.

Un-related to facts, time is not money, and wasteful of energy and materials.

Lauds Gallant Efforts Of Cesar Chavez

As I sit with my family contemplating the joy of a generous Thanksgiving dinner, I am reminded that those responsible for the abundance I will enjoy - California's farm workers - are denied the deserved rewards of their labor.

Greedy leaders of the state's agribusiness, ruthless Teamster intervention, and an insensitive general public together threaten to undermine the decade of gallant efforts by Cesar Chavez and his United Farm Workers.

Recognizing this, the Roman Catholic Council of Bishops and Northern California Council of Churches recently called for the support of the national boycott of non-union table grapes and head lettuce. We who partake so plentifully of the efforts of this state's farm workers can show our support by honoring this boycott. We can also assist by writing Frank Fitzsimmons, Teamster general vice-president (25 Louisiana Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C. 2001), condemning his union's unwarranted intervention in the farm labor struggle.

Leaders Lack Foresight; People Apathetic

Mr. Djordjevich's remarks ("Readers Say," Nov. 21) focussing attention on the lack of foresight of our "leaders" are both true and timely.

In eight short words the Bible (Proverbs 29:18) tells us, "Where there is no vision the people perish."

Can our lethargic apathetic citizens wake up in time? I doubt it.

Councilmen Ignore Democratic Process

I was aghast when I read of the firing of Mr. Jorgen Lunding from the San Rafael Planning Commission by San Rafael Council members Miskimen, Mulryan, and Nixon, who are trying to railroad a general plan affecting the property owners of San Rafael.

Apparently Mr. Lunding was fired for wanting public scrutiny of this plan. Surely all of us who would be affected by the plan should have an opportunity to be heard.

These three men (and I regret to say, I voted for two of them) are completely ignoring the democratic process. They seem to be setting themselves up as a junta which gets rid of anyone with contrary opinions. Mayor Bettini and Councilman Jensen are certainly to be admired for their stands against this travesty on justice.

Reader Takes Issue With Grand Jury Findings

This letter has reference to the recent articles in the I-J regarding the report of the grand jury committee in which the Marin Municipal Water Board directors were criticized for not taking an aggressive position in support of Proposition E, the water bond election.

In the light of Mr. Felson's rather thorough and unchallenged refutation of the claims of the grand jury committee (and incidentally supported by Mr. John MacPhail, one of the board members on "the other side), it is surprising that the I-J would publish the editorial of Nov. 21, which condones release of an opinion based on speculation, and not on fact.

I refer to the statement of the grand jury committee reported in the Nov. 20 I-J which says, "The board's vacillation, self-contradictions and lack of leadership in providing information to the electorate were the chief factors in the Nov. 6 defeat," etc. Nowhere do we find any supporting data to back up this statement and I feel that it is subject to question. Certainly, Mrs. Wellman and I, as average voters, do not believe that we were lacking in information on the issue before the election, nor do we feel that we were influenced one way or the other by the position of the individual board members, nor do we feel that important information was withheld from us. . .

Possibly the grand jury committee has satisfied itself as to the validity of the conclusions released. . . If not, it would appear to me that this action constitutes a misuse of the grand jury procedure and a mis-application of its lawful powers, which is deplored, by some of us at least. That the I-J would editorialize in favor of unsupported opinions which can be damaging to the county as a whole, and divisive of the electorate, is a sad situation.

You're In Good Hands At Marin General Hospital

Having been a recent patient in the coronary care unit (familiarly known as the heart unit) at Marin General Hospital for the second time in eight years, I felt that I just had to let people know what fine care one receives there. I can readily understand why my doctor told me when he put me in there that, when I go among all those attractive and competent girls, I would hate to go home! It seems that there is almost nothing the nurses and all the rest of the hospital staff will not do to make life more comfortable and cheerful for one, and that is half the battle towards recovery. This also includes the Pink Ladies who so generously donate their time and services to help and cheer the patients.

Much the same can likewise be said for the surgery unit as well, from personal experience. My late wife was so pleased with the care and attention she received there three years ago, while recuperating from surgery for a malignant brain tumor, that she wrote a letter to the hospital administrator, Ray K. Bolinger, telling him so, soon after she came home. Her letter was a bit disorganized, as a result of some temporary brain damage at the time, but Mr. Bolinger understood what she was trying to say and wrote a nice reply. You're in good hands with Marin General!

Kennedy Opened Door To Soviet Union That Made Nixon's Moves Possible

MEMPHIS, Tenn. - In the blowing rain in a hotel parking lot on a bluff above the Mississippi River, Mr. Nixon faced a crowd of friendly cheerers and a fringe of protesters who varied their signs demanding impeachment with others like "Liddy for Attorney General."

The president told them the same things he had told the crowd waiting at an Air Force base in Georgia, the law students and politicians in the chapel at Mercer University, the managing editors at Disney World, and the Republican governors inside the hotel.

Some of the same things, that is. Despite his new policy of televisibility, he is not volunteering things unpleasant. He is accentuating the positive, including some things he can be justly boastful about. That means, mostly, things that have taken place beyond the borders of the continental United States.

Ending the war. Ending the draft (although he adds that he hopes plenty of young fellows are going to continue to volunteer). Helping stop the Yom Kippur war. Opening the door to China. Opening the door to Russia.

THERE, UNFORTUNATELY, the list loses its consensus status and becomes yet another cause for corrective analysis. It is especially necessary to take him up on it this week because, in fact, "opening the door" to the Soviet Union, in terms of civil discourse and mutually beneficial agreement, was the main accomplishment of the president killed 10 years ago.

The romantic American memory of John Kennedy today grew mainly out of the way he died. It has a base, of course, in his youth, good looks, rhetoric, and the optimism he personified. But they were nebulous things.

Although he is gone, and Khrushchev with whom he dealt is gone, the opening Kennedy created was real. It is the one through which Mr. Nixon now does business with Brezhnev.

It was the result of common sense, in turn the result of both Kennedy's and Khrushchev's being nearly mortally frightened by their own earlier blunders. Kennedy allowed the Bay of Pigs fiasco in April, 1961. Khrushchev noted that, and less than two months later took the young president's measure at Vienna, the only summit confrontation the two ever had.

Khrushchev mismeasured. Having done so, he tested Kennedy more dangerously the following year by introducing strategic missiles into Cuba. Kennedy sternly called his bluff, dealing him a major defeat without the firing of a shot - and yet he carefully avoided publicly calling it what it was. Instead, he praised Khrushchev as a statesman, allowing him to retain some face before the world.

IN THIS STATE of shock and relief, both sides were ready for a change that might prevent their coming so close to war again. Kennedy spoke at American University the following June, ostensibly to the graduating class of 1963, but his words were addressed to Nikita Khrushchev when he said:

"Let us examine our attitude toward peace itself. . . I am not referring to the absolute, infinite concept of universal peace and goodwill of which some fantasies and fanatics dream. . . Let us focus instead on a more practical, more attainable peace, based - not on a sudden revolution in human nature but on a gradual evolution in human institutions - on a series of concrete actions and effective agreements which are in the interest of all concerned. . ."

Not so remarkable now; in fact, easily mistakable for excerpts from something the pragmatic Mr. Nixon or Dr. Kissinger might have said in the '70s. But at that time it was a landmark, formalizing the abandonment of the morally indignant cold-war rhetoric of the years when John Foster Dulles ran United States foreign policy. In Moscow, Izvestia recognized this and ran the speech with approval.

Within seven weeks a nuclear test-ban treaty was agreed on. Within six months Kennedy was dead, and within another year Khrushchev was out of office. But the momentum of their deeds continued; the door remained open.

In posterity, the Kissinger-Nixon moves toward China may bulk greater than the Kennedy initiatives toward the Soviet Union. But in that perspective they also will be seen as an extension of those initiatives, the second part of a long process in which both presidents used diplomatic skill and political daring - and for which history demands credit to both.

We All Become The Victims In Growth Of Computer Crime

(Reprinted from Orange Cove News)

There is a new kind of criminal at large in America. His accomplice is not a dim-witted thug with the mentality of an earthworm, but a computer. According to U.S. News and World Report, illegal use of computers is now the fastest-growing white collar crime in the country.

Untold millions are being stolen each year, and the crimes range from simple embezzlement to destruction of official information stored on data banks. Experts say that computer criminals are challenged by the prospect of "beating" a complex system and overcoming protective devices as much as by any monetary reward. Consequently, their primary targets are government agencies and large corporations, rather than individuals.

Computerized crime is less violent and personal than mugging in the streets, but is every bit as reprehensible. Combating it requires additional security systems, which add to operating overhead. Businesses have no choice but to increase the prices of the products they sell and the services they perform to make up for these costs. Thus, whether the criminals realize it or not, individual people are still the victims of their illegal actions.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

Nov. 26, 1963

The New York stock market made one of its greatest rallies in history, with the Dow-Jones industrial index rising 23.68 points during the day.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors urged the Golden Gate Bridge District to start one-way toll collection on the bridge on an experimental basis.

20 YEARS AGO

Nov. 26, 1953

San Rafael voters passed a $1,060,000 elementary school bond issue by vote of 2,712 to 1,016. About 37 per cent of eligible voters turned out.

Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, R-Wis., charged in a nationwide radio and television address that the administration of President Harry Truman had been "crawling with reds."

Sausalito Seeks $75,000 Annual Toll From Ferry Service Users

Now the city is measuring the Golden Gate Bridge District for a skinning. The scheme is to sock the district some $75,000 a year to use a sliver of former tideland for a permanent downtown ferry terminal.

Considering that the city got the tidelands free from the state, and that the district also is a public agency — supported by public funds and serving the need for transit — the city displays fantastic gall in trying to profiteer from the terminal.

The bridge district, of course, could condemn the sliver it needs and eliminate the city from the picture. This, however, would take a lot more time than the district wants to lose before opening the terminal.

The result is the city thinks it has the district over a barrel. We hope bridge directors will resist such blackmail.

The public should take careful note that it will be the city's fault if the terminal is delayed further or if funds needed for transit are spilled into the city's pot of gold.

RUMOR THAT HE may pass up an Assembly race to run instead for Congress has been discounted by Marin County Supervisor Michael Wornum. He expects to announce his candidacy for the Assembly in January.

The rumor was floated by persons who either want someone else to get the Democratic nomination or covet it themselves.

A CONGRESSIONAL staffer reports his boss recently got the following telegram with a seasonal touch: "Avoid the Christmas rush — impeach the president now!"

SOME GOLDEN GATE Transit drivers apparently don't believe their orders to save fuel by running engines no more than three minutes between runs, reports Sidney Fain of San Rafael.

Fain, a retired Air Force policeman, told us last week he rode several buses whose engines were left running up to eight minutes.

The three-minute limit was imposed two weeks ago by bus transit manager H. Donald White. He explained that starting a bus used up roughly the same amount of fuel that would be burned by letting it idle for three minutes.

SOCIO-POLITICO note of the campaign season: Secy. of State Edmund G. Brown Jr., unannounced candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, lived in Sausalito in 1964 while clerking at the Supreme Court. There's a local angle in every story.

Tam High District Board Joins Move For Shorter Meetings

Tamalpais High School District trustees last week took a first step toward streamlining the agenda for their often lenghty sessions.

Trustees approved six agenda items in one action and thus disposed of some routine matters which were up for second hearing.

According to Edward J. Neumeier, district administrative assistant, both Supt. Robert D. Torrey and Jerrold M. Ladar, board president, are interested in making the grouping of items a regular practice.

THE BOARD'S AGENDA includes a projected time limit for each agenda item and those approved in one action last week were forecast to take 40 minutes. Although some agenda items take less time than the projection, meetings usually run beyond their forecast finish time, indicating the average item's discussion time is longer than the prediction.

Even though it would seem that routine items should be passed quickly, there is always the temptation for a trustee to speak if given the chance and that is what usually destroys the schedule.

Some might argue that grouping items together would tend to give them superficial treatment and allow things to be "swept under the board's rug." This fear could be allayed by allowing trustees and citizens the right to request that items be removed from the group and heard individually.

TAMALPAIS TRUSTEES are neither alone nor pathfinders in this pursuit.

Larkspur City Council is considering a similar move, and other boards, including the smaller Kentfield School District board, already have "consent calendars" on which items are grouped for approval.

A consent calendar would require that trustees do their "homework" before attending meetings so that they could be sure no important matter had become buried under routine items.

That would seem a small price to pay for shortening the Tam board's meetings, which have averaged about four hours per session lately, with at least two meetings each month.

CYCLING ST. NICHOLAS

Even St. Nicholas, the European version of Santa Claus, is finding the going a little rough these days. He was forced to travel by bicycle yesterday while visiting some children in Haarlem, Holland, because of that nation's ban on Sunday driving. A growing number of industrial nations are banning Sunday driving to save fuel in the face of Arab oil cutbacks.

HOUSTON (UPI) - Flight controllers canceled the first Skylab 3 Earth photography pass because of bad weather and said today all such data-collecting sweeps may be cut short to conserve needed fuel.

Crewmen Gerald P. Carr and William R. Pogue were to train their array of earth cameras across the northern United States before a cloud cover interfered.

Flight Director Donald R. Puddy said the length of the rest of the earth resources passes of the flight may be cut in half-down to 15-20 minutes-because it now takes longer to roll the orbiting lab into position.

One of three stabilizing gyroscopes that keep the 100- ton lab in the right position in space has failed, but the ship is still operating satisfactorily on the remaining two.

Puddy said, however, that there might be more separate passes made, meaning just as much data on agriculture, geology, forests, the weather, the oceans and urban areas would be obtained.

"There's nothing we've come across yet that would keep us from obtaining all of the Skylab 3 objectives," he said.

With the cloudy conditions in sight, controllers decided against taking a chance the positioning effort would be wasted. Meteorologists would have been happy with pictures of clouds but other scientists need a good shot of the ground.

The thousands of earth study pictures the first two Skylab crews have made already are producing practical benefits. What may be a giant ore deposit in Nevada and hints on controlling insect infestation in crops in forests are among facts derived from them thus far.

Ford's Confirmation Expected This Week

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Rep. Gerald R. Ford is expected to win overwhelming Senate approval to be vice president this week, but his House colleagues want to ask him more questions about an effort to impeach Justice William O. Douglas.

Ford's confirmation was one of the immediate items before Congress, as lawmakers return from a Thanksgiving holiday, facing a massive workload that could keep them busy until Christmas.

The Senate planned to debate Ford's nomination today and vote tomorrow. Majority approval in both House and Senate are needed to make him vice president to succeed Spiro T. Agnew. $75,181-year Meanwhile, the 60-year-old House Republican leader was recalled to testify today before the House Judiciary Committee, where Rep. Jerome Waldie, D-Calif., has charged that Ford's unsuccessful 1970 effort to impeach Douglas from the Supreme Court may have been aided by President Nixon and his former attorney general, John N. Mitchell.

Waldie says his research has established that Ford was acting as the "handmaiden" of Nixon and Mitchell in the impeachment effort and that the Justice Department fed Ford information on Douglas in violation of its own rules.

"If he in fact was a participant in a concerted political effort by Nixon and Mitchell to impeach Douglas, then it's my view that his understanding of using the Department of Justice only for other than political purposes is lacking," Waldie said Friday.

Ford told the committee last Wednesday he asked Mitchell for guidance in the impeachment move and that Mitchell sent his deputy, Will Wilson, who gave him a list of "certain areas I should pursue." He said the list was written on plain paper without a Justice Department letterhead.

Waldie said the list contained detailed notes on events involving the Parvin Foundation, the background of Albert Parvin and his connections to President Lyndon B. Johnson's convicted aide Bobby Baker, the Mafia, Dominican Republic gambling operations and the Flamingo Motel in Las Vegas.

Douglas had been a $12,000-a-year trustee of the foundation while serving on the Supreme Court. Ford asked in an April 15, 1970, speech on the House floor: "What would bring an associate Justice of the Supreme Court into any sort of relationship with some of the most unsavory and notorious elements of American society?" Douglas later quit the foundation.

Also before Congress, in a pre-Christmas legislative rush, are:

Nixon's selection of Sen. William B. Saxbe, R-Ohio, to be attorney general, presently snagged on a constitutional provision preventing a member of Congress to take a job for which he, as a legislator, raised the pay.

Emergency presidential powers to deal with the energy crisis, which have so far passed the Senate. Also legislation to make Daylight Saving Time year round to conserve fuel by having Americans work more hours in daylight.

Appropriations for defense and health, education and welfare; and an expected fight over public financing of elections, which will come up as part of debt ceiling legislation.

Merchants Said More Aware Of Toy Safety

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The head of the government's campaign against dangerous toys says merchants seem to be taking the effort more seriously than in the past, and they had better or he will "swell" the jails with violators.

Richard Simpson, chairman of the Consumer Product Safety Commission, told UPI that few store owners took the program seriously last year, when it was run by the Food and Drug Administration. He said some 55 per cent of all retail stores checked last year were selling banned toys.

Simpson's agency took over the program six months ago.

"I think this year they are taking us more seriously," Simpson said in a Washington Window interview. "They really should. We mean to enforce the laws." He said the number of dangerous toys on the market will be reduced or "the jails are going to swell-one or the other will happen."

As to what the consumer himself should do, Simpson said, use common sense and watch for toys with sharp points and edges, small parts that might be swallowed and things that might burn.

Anyone with information or a question can call the agency's toll-free hot line. The number is 800-638-2666, except in Maryland where it's 800-429-2937. Calls received during off hours are recorded and answered later.

Simpson said bicycles rank at the top of the commission's list of most dangerous consumer products. He said his agency is preparing new safety regulations requiring that bikes be safe even if put together by the average consumer.

"We insist for the bicycle to comply, if it is to be assembled by the consumer, that it must be assembled with only a screwdriver and a pair of pliers, the kinds of things that the consumer will use. We test them against an average consumer assembly, and they must still be safe, assembled in that fashion," he said.

"Father of the Blues"

The composer of the "St. Louis Blues" was born 100 years ago. His memory is being honored by numerous anniversary concerts and celebrations in different parts of the country. Among the other classics written by this famous American musician and composer are "Memphis Blues" and "Beale Street Blues." He also had a deep interest in sacred music, especially Negro spiritual. He arranged nearly 40 spirituals, and wrote numerous sacred compositions of his own. Known as the "Father of the Blues," he was born in 1873 in Florence, Alabama, and died in 1958. He was an important source for today's continuing rural and urban blues.

DO YOU KNOW — Who is known as the "Father of the Blues"?

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Low Price Not Always Bargain

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. In January my husband purchased 100 Aileen, Inc. (NYSE) at 7½ thinking it had recovery potential. Would you please advise us on this holding? — J.A.

A. Low-priced stocks, more often than not, turn out to be anything but bargains as your investment, which has declined over 45 per cent in less than one year, demonstrates. The question now, however, is what probability there is for recovery. Aileen, in the last two years, has expanded its plant three-fold and phased out four divisions. While expansion has resulted in sharply higher interest costs for the company, the benefits to be derived from the full integration of operations, which was achieved in the process, are substantial.

In spite of having discontinued several brand lines, Aileen managed to increase sales 12 per cent in the first nine months of this year. Although earnings were up at 38 cents a share versus 28 cents in the 1972 period, tax credits at 16 cents a share were double those of a year ago. If management is able to translate sales gains into higher profits, the stock could move up significantly. Hold.

Q. I am 55 and recently retired. What changes would you suggest in my portfolio to provide maximum income with security? — L.R.

A. There are a number of changes possible in your list, which includes varying dollar amounts of 10 different issues. The portfolio, valued currently at approximately $31,100, returns $1,710 in dividends annually, equal to a 5.5 per cent yield. By selling five low-yield issues and purchasing bonds your income will be increased to $2,300 per year and yield 7.4 per cent. The five sales are: Airco (NYSE), International Tel. & Tel. (NYSE), RCA Corp. (NYSE), Safeway Stores (NYSE) and Sperry Rand (NYSE).

With the proceeds from these sales — about $13,000 — buy 6M Carolina Tel. & Tel. 9⅛s of 2000 and 6M Maine Yankee Atomic Power 9.10s of 2002. Both A-rated bonds are trading above par to yield 8.5 per cent or better, currently. Interest payments, which are semiannual, will be mailed to you in April, May, October and November.

Gas Well Costs

ARLINGTON, Va. (UPI) — The average gas well costs $170,000 to drill and if it is an exploratory hole it has less than a 20 per cent chance of striking gas in commercially feasible quantities, according to the American Gas Association.

Ways Given To Reduce Fuel Waste

In keeping with the urgent national need to conserve energy, there are a number of "painless" ways for the American motorist to improve his car's gasoline mileage, a Ford Motor Company expert said today.

Richard A. Place, emissions and powertrain product planning manager for Ford's Product Development Group, said one important way is to reduce speed.

"The greater the speed, the more wind resistance your engine has to overcome by using more gas," he explained. "Reducing your speed from 60 mph to 50 mph can cut fuel consumption by 10 per cent."

He also offered these other suggestions:

Avoid fast starts when the traffic light turns green.

Don't haul needless weight. "It's less expensive to store your fishing tackle, golf clubs or bowling ball at home than in your luggage compartment."

Keep your engine properly maintained and tuned. Have carburetor, air cleaner, and spark plugs checked regularly.

Check your cooling-system thermostat. "A faulty or improper thermostat can waste gas by prolonging engine warm-up in cold weather."

Keep tires inflated to the pressure recommended by the manufacturer. "Underinflated tires increase rolling resistance, which requires more fuel to move the car."

Energy Fears Continue Bad Effect On Market

NEW YORK (UPI) — Concern that President Nixon's emergency energy measures may not offset the threat of a recession cut stock prices sharply in active trading on the New York Stock Exchange today.

E.F. Hutton analyst Newton Zinder termed the decline "more of the same thing that's been happening to the list all month," citing the widespread fear of recession due to the energy crisis as the major depressant.

He added there was a "generally pessimistic appraisal of Nixon's speech," in which he outlined a number of restrictions on the nation's fuel consumption. There also is concern, Zinder said, other nations whose economies are drastically affected by the Arab oil embargo "could drag the United States down with them."

Integrity Corp. Earnings Are Up

TORRANCE — Integrity Entertainment Corp., owner and operator of The Wherehouse record and tape stores throughout California, including an outlet in Corte Madera, announced increased sales for the third quarter of this year.

Sales for the quarter ended Sept. 30, 1973, totalled $4,017,193, an increase of 70 per cent over $2,358,246 for the prior year period. Earnings for the quarter were $87,625 or 5 cents per share.

Christmas Club Checks Mailed

With the holiday season just around the corner, a record $104,193,963 in Christmas Club checks, including $296,204 for San Rafael depositors is being distributed this month by Bank of America, to more than 400,000 Californians.

In making the announcement, the bank said the number of account holders at the three San Rafael offices came to 1,069, the average account totaling $277. For Marin County 3,273 people saved $913,542.

All told, 206,094 Northern Californians saved $52,054,769 under the Christmas Club plan this year, while 207,087 residents of Southern California put away $52,139,194. For the state 413,181 Californians participated in the program for an average of $252 per account. This year's total represents an increase of 3.5 per cent over the 1972 high.

"Most of this money will end up as packages under the Christmas tree," said Regional Vice President A. B. Gilman, but some savers will also use their checks to pay other year end expenses like property taxes and insurance premiums."

SCIENCE NEWS — Checking one of their first stories are writers and organizers of the San Rafael based Science News Service Emile Haller (left), Allister MacKenzie and Richard Tobias. The three believe their service can supplement and expand the coverage of science and technological discoveries now reported in the medium-sized daily newspapers.

SAN RAFAEL OPERATION

Service Puts Out Science News

By KAREN PETERSON

Did you know that a comet is not a star but a chunk of ice or that Reno, Nev., may become the acupuncture center of North America?

To the creators of Science News Service, based at 223 Santa Margarita Drive in San Rafael, most Americans are victims of the "information explosion," and they're concerned that newspaper readers may be missing out on "discoveries more important than the invention of the microscope."

"This is virgin territory for writers," said one of its founders, Richard Tobias of Fetters Hot Springs. "There is so much data exploration going on that we have to create new sources to keep up with it."

Working out of the home of Emile Haller, former assistant city editor of the Detroit Free Press and United Press International reporter, the men are putting together a two-year-old plan to give readers accurate and timely information worldwide scientific and technological advances.

"There is so much happening in the science world," said Richard Tobias, a freelance writer and former music columnist for the Detroit News, "and it's the least covered area proportionate to the size of the information."

Last week packets were sent nationwide to 300 newspapers the writers think need more extensive science coverage. The first packer included stories on using acupuncture for possible relief from arthritic pain and the body's need for zinc.

"There are 300 papers in this country about the same size as the Independent-Journal," said Tobias. "Marin is typical of a community with a high percentage of professional and technical people and businessmen who are generally interested in anything happening in the science community.

"There's a shortage of people who write and understand science conceptually," he said, and those who rely solely on Associated Press and UPI Service, he added, often receive news known in the scientific community for more than a year.

Science News Service, relying on freelance writers now numbering 25 in the United States, Canada, Hawaii and Hong Kong, said Haller, is still seeking writers with a good understanding of science.

And the stories, said service writer and science expert Allister MacKenzie, will be "light enough so that something of substance can be absorbed."

As former newspapermen the founders, both in their early 30s, feel that Americans need information on the possible social impact of seemingly minor scientific discoveries.

"Most scientists are poor writers," said Tobias, "and most writers are not scientists but literary people."

Using acupuncture as an example of scientific knowledge "ho-hummed" by writers, Haller said that not long ago when acupuncture news was coming in to the UPI Munich bureau, the reporters there dismissed it as "Communist-Maoist propaganda."

"There's research going on now in North Korea that would astound the scientific" world, he said.

Currently the service's news comes from trade and technical sources and inquiries to scientific institutions. "Ultimately," said Tobias, "we will have a center for digesting data, and all the data that comes through will be evaluated for significance and put into an understandable form.

"I've had the idea of the service for two years and seriously began working on it this summer."

Suit Blocks Portion Of Documentary

BROWNSTOWN, Ind. (UPI) — Circuit Court Judge Robert Brown issued a partial injunction today against ABC-TV, permitting it to show the burning of a child's crib on a documentary tonight but forbidding mention of the name of the crib's manufacturer.

Brown took under advisement a libel suit against the network.

Brown ruled that the American Broadcasting Co. can broadcast the television documentary on fire hazards tonight as scheduled, including "visual inserts" in a 40-second segment showing the crib burning.

However, Brown held that the show must eliminate references to Smith Cabinet Manufacturing Co. of Salem and Seymour, Ind., or its subsidiary, Childcraft, which markets the crib, until further study.

Smith had sought the injunction and asked for $5.5 million in libel judgment against ABC on grounds publicity surrounding the documentary had hurt its sales of the crib. The crib, which is made of plastic and wood, was shown in the documentary through timelapse photography as burning in about half a minute. The company said an advance story caused several New York department stores to discontinue marketing the crib.

Britain Ready To Ration Gas

LONDON (UPI) — Peter Walker, Britain's Trade and Industry secretary, said today the government will issue gasoline rationing coupons beginning Thursday.

Walker told the House of Commons the decision was intended "as a precaution."

Walker told Parliament the rationing system was being designed to ensure a "fair" allocation with priority for industry and essential services.

A basic ration to cover essential travel—such as from home to work if public transport was unavailable—will be provided, he said.

Cavity Victims Take Problems Into Mexico

ALGODONES, Mex. (AP) — Americans with toothaches are heading south of the border to this sleepy Baja town of 2,500 residents.

The cavity victims cross into Mexico — 10 miles west of Yuma, Ariz. — by the hundreds each month, gingerly baring their bridgework to the care of Algodones' six dentists.

Their offices fill the town's street nearest to the border and the dentists and their patients say their fees are about one-third less than those north of the border.

"I can't keep up with the number of patients that come here. I have as many as 35 patients a day," said Dr. Pierre Magana, 32. He came here less than four years ago and says he was the first to start practicing.

Magana has one assistant to help him run a six-office dental clinic which he estimated cost him $160,000 to build. "I just hope it's going to be large enough," he said, sounding a note of worry.

Dr. Jose Valenzuela, 44, said Americans are lured to Algodones "because the price is right."

"We are at least one-third cheaper than dentists on the other side. But we pride ourselves in being good dentists," said Valenzuela. "All our dental supplies come from the States. There is no difference in our work and that of competent dentists in the United States."

All six dentists display similar signs on their doors. The signs read: "Dentista. Hours 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Seven days a week. English spoken."

Dr. Rodolfo Meneses, 26, is Algodones' dental newcomer. In practice just one year, he said he wants to study in Spain and become an orthodontist, because "I get many requests to straighten young people's teeth and none of us do that here."

"My husband and I drive 175 miles to our dentist. It's well worth it," she said. Mrs. Steidtman said she needs new plates every two years.

"My plates cost me $132.50 — uppers and lowers. At home, they would cost at least $450 a pair," she added.

"And there's no difference," Mrs. Steidtman reported. "I know. I have had them from both places."

Recovery Of Pickup Truck Made

A Mill Valley youth was arrested Friday on suspicion of stealing a pickup truck, after the truck's owner recognized it traveling down C Street in San Rafael about 10:30 a.m.

The owner, Tina Loeb of 318 C Street, flagged down a San Rafael patrolman, who gave chase and stopped David Frank Martin, 18, of 422 Green Glen Way, Mill Valley, at C and First streets.

Martin claimed he'd bought the truck from a casual acquaintance in Mill Valley. He gave the police registration papers that matched the truck's license, but not its engine number. The actual owner showed police where the truck's original color showed through a hasty repainting job, and pointed out other identifying marks.

Martin was booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of felony vehicle theft, misdemeanor alteration of registration numbers and failure to present valid registration papers. He posted $1,200 bail and is to appear in Marin Municipal Court on Wednesday.

Saxbe Approval Snags Are Seen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., said today grave constitutional questions exist on the nomination of Sen. William Saxbe to be attorney general, even if a special bill aimed at removing them is approved.

Mansfield was asked by reporters about a bill due before the Senate later this week to temporarily lower the attorney general's salary from $60,000 to $35,000 so Saxbe can serve.

The legislation is intended to overcome a constitutional bar on any member of Congress serving in a government position after the salary for the job has been raised while he was serving in Congress.

Harmer Will Make Bid For Lt. Gov.

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Sen. John L. Harmer of Glendale, one of Gov. Ronald Reagan's most avid supporters, announced today he will seek the 1974 Republican nomination for lieutenant governor.

Harmer, who was elected to the Senate in 1966, declared, "I earnestly feel it is time the traditional role and responsibilities of the lieutenant governor be enlarged upon, that future governors, the legislature and the people insist that California's second most important job become just that."

Harmer announced his candidacy during a series of statewide news conferences in Los Angeles, San Diego and San Francisco. He also released the announcement of his candidacy in Sacramento.

It is Harmer's second try for statewide office. He unsuccessfully sought the GOP nomination for attorney general in 1970.

Harmer declared he was qualified for the office of lieutenant governor because as chairman of the Senate Republican caucus "I worked closely with the administration to obtain passage of programs vital to the well-being of California residents."

He said he was announcing his candidacy more than seven months before the June primary election because "I believe Californians deserve and want as much time as possible to critically examine and learn about the men and women who will be seeking high elected offices."

Harmer said in the coming months he will confront every major California issue.

He said these include the energy crisis, "the inflation that is crippling every working man and woman, uncontrolled state spending, employment fluctuations, accountability by elected officials, the absence of uniform quality education and election and campaign reforms."

Planes Delivered To Australians

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The last six of 24 F111-C fighterbombers purchased by the Royal Australian Air Force from the United States were turned over to the Australians during ceremonies today at McClellan Air Force Base.

The six planes took off in pairs from the base for the route to their new home via Hawaii and Samoa, officials said.

Australia is the first allied nation to purchase the aircraft, which will replace its Canberra bombers in use since the early 1950s, officials said.

Will Not 'Jump Ship,' President Declares

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon told the Seafarers Union today he would not "jump ship" until he finished his job as President.

In a half-hour speech at the union's convention, Nixon said he would not resign despite "troubled seas" created by Watergate.

"However rough the seas are, I don't get seasick," Nixon said. "It's the captain's job to bring the ship into port. I can assure you, you don't have to worry about me getting seasick or jumping ship.

"I'm going to stay at that helm until I bring it into port."

The President, using metaphors of the sea, issued his latest of many frequent denials of any intention to resign toward the end of his speech. Mostly, he talked about the nation's energy problems and how Americans would have to face up to them.

Hall was the only member of the 35-man AFL-CIO Executive Committee who voted last month against a resolution at the federation's national convention calling for impeachment of Nixon.

Nixon received a warm welcome from the 200 delegates and approximately 200 guests at the Seafarers meeting at the Statler-Hilton Hotel, a few blocks from the White House.

He spoke without notes, with a wide sweep of his arms to enphasize his points. Sometimes, he leaned forward and gripped the lectern. The audience applauded him at times during the speech and stood for ovations before and after he spoke.

Nixon spoke to a few bystanders as he was leaving the hotel.

Orchestra Piccola Sets Season's First Concert

The Orchestra Piccola of the Marin Youth Orchestra will give its first concert of the season at 2:30 p.m. Sunday at the College of Marin Fine Arts Theater.

The orchestra will play "Sinfonia No. 7 Le Midi" by Haydn, "Chronologic Variations" by Heuwell Tircuit, "Concerto in C Major for Two Flutes and Strings" by Vivaldi and "Toccata e due Canzoni" by Martinue, Hugo Rinaldi will conduct.

Soloists will be Marike Smiley, Terri Baune, Wendy Tomlinson, Bruce Strong, Sara Allen and Eliane Lust.

The Piccola, made up of the youth orchestra's most accomplished musicians, was the first amateur ensemble to participate in the Festival of Two Worlds in Spoleto, Italy, last summer.

Comet Kohoutek Shows In Skies

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Comet Kohoutek has finally made an appearance in the Northern California sky.

Leon Salanave, executive secretary of the Astronomical Society of the Pacific, said he spotted the comet in the early morning sky today with the aid of binoculars. He said it appeared as a "fuzzy star" and was 4 to 5 times fainter than earlier predicted.

Salanave said the comet was visible about 10 degrees above the southeast horizon before sunrise, about 5 degrees from the bright star Spica.

The comet is expected to become progressively brighter between now and January.

Holiday Ends

LONDON (AP) — Prince Charles and Lady Jane Wellesley have returned from a five-day holiday in Spain, where the heir to the British throne was a guest at the home of Lady Jane's father in Granada.

State Cars Ordered To Cut Speed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke today ordered a 50 m.p.h. speed limit for state cars and asked all departments of state government to make an additional 10 per cent reduction in gasoline use.

Reinecke, serving as acting governor while Ronald Reagan is en route to Australia, said the action was the "first good example" by state government of how Californians must change their lifestyle to live with the energy shortage.

The executive order affects 16,000 state-owned automobiles. There are roughly 15 million vehicles registered in California.

Reinecke, chairman of the Energy Planning Council, earlier proposed that state cars be limited to 55 m.p.h. But he lowered it to 50 m.p.h. to conform with President Nixon's proposal Sunday of a nationwide 50 m.p.h. maximum.

Reinecke said "extravagance" in decorative lighting during the holidays also must be curtailed, but added: "I'm certainly not trying to rule out Santa Claus."

Reinecke estimated the 50 m.p.h. speed limit for state owned cars would reduce their consumption by about 10 per cent. The limit does not apply to law enforcement or emergency vehicles.

He said the limit cannot be enforced by the California Highway Patrol, but would be watched by other state officials.

Reinecke said the various state departments can choose how to make the other 10 per cent reduction in gas consumption. He said he would issue an executive order mandating the reduction later today.

The lieutenant governor said his staff had not computed how much loss of time would result from state employes driving slower, but added: "Hopefully, they'll use the telephone instead."

How to Play and WIN PRIZES:

Pick up your FREE game folder at our store today—and then . . .

Each time you visit one of our stores participating in this Program, you will receive ABSOLUTELY FREE—one BONUS BINGO game piece bearing a "wash-off" patch on the front which conceals the identity of one of the 8 games in your game folder to which THAT game piece applies and the NUMBER and LETTER of the specific BOX you can score on THAT game in your folder.

Follow instructions on back of game piece to reveal game and box specified on game piece. Locate that game on your folder and mark an X in the box specified to indicate receipt of THAT game piece. Hold, but DO NOT PASTE GAME PIECE IN YOUR FOLDER. Game pieces may ONLY be applied to the GAME and BOX specified. ALL BOXES pre-printed with an X on your game folder are FREE BOXES and count as "scored" to HELP YOU WIN. No game piece will be issued or required for these FREE BOXES. All game folders for this program are identical. One folder is all you will need in order to play all 8 games during the entire Program.

YOU WIN the dollar amount shown for any game just by scoring any 5 boxes in a straight line on THAT game (EITHER HORIZONTAL, VERTICAL or DIAGONAL) using any combination of FREE BOXES and game pieces.

TO CLAIM YOUR PRIZE just submit to our Store Manager ONLY those game pieces which helped you score 5 boxes in a straight line on any one game and sign them in his presence. When game pieces submitted score "bingo" on more than one line, only one prize will be awarded. All winning game pieces are subject to our verification procedure before payment of cash prizes.

Keep your game folder and all your other game pieces and continue playing this Program. YOU ARE NOT LIMITED IN THE NUMBER OF TIMES YOU CAN WIN.

IMPORTANT: No illegible, altered, torn or mutilated game pieces will be accepted. We reserve the right to correct any typographical or mechanical error which might appear in any printed matter, including but not limited to game folders and game pieces used in conjunction with this program. We reserve the right to reject as invalid any game piece containing any printing error and any game piece not obtained through legitimate channels.

Only one game piece will be given per store visit to ADULTS ONLY. Game pieces may be obtained FREE—NO PURCHASE REQUIRED, at the Store Manager's office or either end of any checkout counter, or by writing to P.O. Box 2256, Terminal Annex, Los Angeles, Calif. 90051. Only one game piece and game folder may be requested per envelope. Our employees and their immediate families and the immediate families of Strategic Merchandising Corp. are ineligible to participate in this Program.

Only game folders and game pieces bearing the Program #462 are applicable to the game in this Program. Scheduled termination date of this Program is February 23, 1974. Game terminates with distribution of all game pieces and all prizes must be claimed within ten (10) days following termination announcement to be eligible for payment.

SAHA, A Pakistani head bearer, waits on Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ogle of Tiburon at their house in Karachi, Pakistan, where they lived for three years while Ogle managed Bank of America's Karachi branch. The Ogles were often called upon to entertain Pakistani business associates at home.

Pakistan Poverty Affects Pair During 4-Year Stay

By PAT BALMES

Betty Ogle will share her four years of adventures in Karachi, Pakistan, with other alumnae of Delta Delta Delta sorority at a meeting at her Tiburon home tomorrow night.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ogle lived there from 1963 to 1967 while he was manager of Bank of America's Karachi branch.

"There is a lot of difference between the haves and the have nots," said Betty Ogle of the Pakistanis. A Moslem is supposed to take care of his parents and his own family. The average pay is 60 cents a day, so nothing is left over for the poor. There is no social security and no public relief programs.

The main food is dal, chicken peas cooked in grease, and chapati, similar to a tortilla, she said.

Many live most of their lives in gunny sack tents on the sidewalk, where dentists, barbers, tailors and scribes for the 85 per cent illiterate population ply their trades.

Cattle, stray dogs and kites (birds) foam the city eating garbage. Poor people are buried in shallow holes scraped in the earth, she said.

"ONCE THEY rounded up all the beggars, but were unable to care for so many in the poorhouse, so they released them all again," she related.

When a girl approaches the age of purdah (behind the curtain) no man, except a very close friend, is allowed to see her face. For the rest of her life, she wears a complete veil with eye holes which is hot and makes it hard to see where she is going, said Mrs. Ogle.

A Moslem is allowed four wives if his first wife agrees. She usually will, to share childbearing and the work, she said.

A family will bankrupt themselves to give a big wedding with six separate men's and women's parties in the upper and middle classes.

THE OGLES attended the wedding of a wealthy sugar plantation owner's daughter, who made a great show of weeping to express sorrow about leaving her father's house. A great ceremony was made of uncovering the bride's face. Usually the bride and bridegroom have not seen each other before their marriage, which is arranged by their families.

"We stole the show from the bride," said Mrs. Ogle. "The women wanted to feel our dresses and stockings."

Contrasting with the main population of Karachi, a sheik and his entourage arrived for hunting in two chartered airplanes and stayed at the International Hotel. His huntsmen fed his falcons by releasing a flock of pigeons behind the hotel. "What a horrible slaughter," she said.

Mrs. Ogle attended cocktail or dinner parties almost every night where elaborately gowned upper class women would all sit in a row along the side and drink fruit juice or tea with milk. "They have a very bad life, shut away from almost everything," she said.

MRS. OGLE would exchange pleasantries in the little Urdu she knew and then went to talk with the men. English is the official business language, she explained.

Entertaining Pakistani business associates posed no problem. Mrs. Ogle had eight servants and a 7,500 square-foot house. However, the Ogle's disliked the greasy Pakistani food, so her cook would prepare a curry for the the Pakistani guests and an American dish for the Ogles.

Every morning Mrs. Ogle gave separate orders to her head bearer and the cook; neither would take orders from the other.

"They did dusting, washed dishes and waited table, but would not pick up anything from the floor. A cook would not dust. A bearer would not clean a bathroom. They are very proud people," she said.

The Ogles also had a driver, a laundry man, a sweeper and a gardener. Their watchman was to close up the house at night and guard the gate, "but he slept a lot; they all did," she commented.

Highlight of their stay was a trip to Lahore, the largest city in Pakistan. Located in the north in Rudyard Kipling country, it was once the seat of Mongolian emperors who built many beautiful things such as the Shalimar Gardens, she said.

The Ogles enjoyed Pakistan and its "very nice" people, but found it difficult to get used to the povery, filth and smells, she said.

Tickets to the "Country Dinner, Complete with Square Dancing" are on sale at the school office or at the recreation center door Friday according to chairman Mrs. Carol Lawson.

Dry Bleach Can Harm Garments

Chlorine bleaches in dry form have appeared on the market in recent years. Designed as heavy-duty products, they do the same effective job of whitening, removing stains, disinfecting and deodorizing as their liquid siblings. They should not be used on silks, woolens, mohair, spandex and some flame retardant fabrics.

Dry bleach products are more expensive but more convenient to use. The powder can be added directly to the wash water at the beginning of the cycle. This is possible since this form contains its own brighteners and delayed bleaching action.

Bleaching action does not occur until the powder is dissolved in water.

A word of caution when using — clothing can be harmed by not using a powdered bleach correctly. Therefore, do not sprinkle directly on items. Check package directions for procedure and for correct amount to use.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Office Worker Is Picked Upon By Belligerent Older Woman

DEAR HELEN:

Can you enlighten me about human behavior?

I've been a secretary in this plant for about a year. An older woman singled me out to play psychiatrist, tying me up for hours with stories about her rotten daughter-in-law, her no-good husband, miserable mother-in-law, and the terrible people she works with. She'd emphasize her remarks by punching me. I was nice, but tried to avoid her as I heard she was impulsive and explodes easily and I didn't want trouble.

About six months ago, after I'd done her a favor, she thanked me first and then proceeded to tell me I was queer, my hair was a mess, why didn't I shape up, etc. Being timid, I just took it and got away as fast as I could.

Then, silence, until last week when she accused me of taking her newspaper (I didn't). When I tried to defend myself, she yelled "Shut up!"

Next day she jabbed me hard as I passed her in the ladies' washroom, then she screamed, "Go ahead, tell everybody, snitch, you baby!" She went into a tirade that lasted half an hour, making all sorts of accusations.

Apparently she hates me, and I don't know why. I'm not a fighter and I've never been a target before. I can't avoid her entirely, so what can I do? — PICKED AT

DEAR P.A.:

Bullies only pick on people who won't fight back. Muster up your courage, and if this woman calls you out again, give as good as you get. Since most of your co-workers will be rooting for you, it shouldn't be difficult. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Is it wiser to marry an older, more mature guy who loves me and would seem to make a better husband, or should I choose a younger, immature fellow whom I love dearly but who runs around? I doubt Guy No. 2 really cares about me enough to stop chasing, while Guy No. 1 would put the world at my feet. I like him, but I'm mad about No. 2.

My friends advise me to marry the older man, and I guess I will, but am I wise? — GEORGINA

DEAR GEORGINA:

Wise — maybe. Selfish? — definitely! Don't marry Guy No. 1 while he's still No. 2 in your life. Don't marry Guy No. 2 until you can be sure you're No. 1 in his life.

In other words: wait. Could be No. 3 is just around the corner. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I have a 7-year-old son. He's a smart boy and makes good grades. But I'm worried because he is afraid of God.

He wants to know if God will get him if he has been bad. We don't go to church, but he goes to Sunday School. All day Sunday he seems scared. Is this normal in small children? — TROUBLED MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER:

Only if they have been frightened with tales of an avenging God. I'd suggest you attend Sunday School or church with your son and find out just what he is being told. Next, ask him about his school friends. Perhaps there's a junior "hellfire and brimstonist" here who enjoys scaring himself and others.

Best way to combat this is to teach the good old text: "God is Love." — H.

Got a problem? An adult subject for discussion? A fun idea? You can talk it over in her column if you write to Helen Bottel, c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902.

THE NEW FASHIONS

Girly Look Breezes In For Winter

By GAY PAULEY

This loosening up of the silhouette shows in roomier armholes, blousy tops, fluttering jackets. It's all a part of the softer, more girly look for the coming season.

When designers aren't loosening the tops, they are lengthening the hemlines. Several experiment with mid-calf lengths for day, or silhouettes that call for belted waistlines, some skirt fullness, and a tall stringbean figure to wear them.

THE LONGER hems, however, are not the general trend. More often, the daytime range is from just above the knee, midknee or covering it.

These were major trends unfolding as the American Designers Group began today its week-long series of fashion shows for visiting reporters from newspapers, television and radio. Buyers saw the clothes in late October and early November. The clothes will begin moving into the stores in late December.

"Girl-Girl freshness and woman-woman allure have completely erased hard, sharp-tailored chic," said the summary. "Lines float, whirl and caress, are diamond-cut, wrapped or diagonal, but never, never masculine."

The dress is called the main pivot of spring fasion. Whatever became of the once perennial spring suit? Answer: What seems like a suit is more often a dress and jacket. There is, however, a good show of the nipped and rounded tailleur, with still more of that look indicated for fall.

WRAP AND tie and the diagonal cut, or bias, are important in all collections. The straight shirt dress and the dress with the stitched hipline are giving way to more voluminous silhouettes.

The status coat: The one of double-faced wool, a difficult to handle fabric. Designer Pauline Trigere's status coat is a silk and wool combination, pale beige on the outside, white on the inside.

"The fabric cost a fortune," Miss Trigere said. "Forty-five dollars a yard."

Spring marks the return of the short sleeve. Sleeves are turned back shirt-style, they're soft cape effects, and for evening that perennial one-shoulder dress is in most collections.

BELTS GENERALLY are replaced by sashes or drawstrings. Many coats and dresses are beltless and loose or shaped, princess style.

And that unbelted shape called the chemise is back, uusually sleeveless, and shown under coat or jacket.

Margaret Jenson Weds William Love On Ferry

Passengers on the 12:30 p.m. run of the ferry boat Golden Gate from Sausalito to San Francisco Saturday were surprised to find that they were guests at the wedding of William Love and Margaret Jenson, both of San Rafael.

Following the ceremony, the just-wed Loves and their 30 person wedding party made the return trip to Sausalito, boarded a Golden Gate Transit bus which took them to the ferry parking lot in North Sausalito, where they left for the wedding reception at the Golden Gate Transit offices in San Rfael.

The bridegroom is a bus driver for the Golden Gate Transit. He is the son of Mrs. Pauline Murray of Tyler, Tex. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Bernice Turner of San Rafael.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Darrell Schlee of Fairfax was the matron of honor, and Thomas Hutt of Albany, was the best man. The Rev. Ira Akens, a friend of the bridegroom, officiated at the ceremony in the middle of the Bay.

Love is a graduate of Technical High School in Fort Worth, Tex., and attended the University of Washington. He served in the Navy for eight years.

Margaret was graduated from San Rafael High School. She is employed by Lee, Swan and Co., a cotton brokerage firm in San Francisco.

The wedding trip will be by land to California's North Coast.

In order to save gas and thus help all of us, we'd like to suggest:

1) Arrange to go to your holiday parties in one car with as many other guests as possible.
2) Plan to use your car economically.
3) Shop in Marin.

Spinsters Will Welcome Five Members Of Marin

The Spinsters of San Francisco will welcome new members, including five from Marin, at a dessert tea tonight in San Francisco.

New members from Marin include Joan Breyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Breyer of Kentfield; Courtney Compton of Mill Valley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin E. Compton of San Francisco; Rhoda Lachman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lachman of Belvedere; Karen Marie Sonnenberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Sonnenberg of Ross; and Debbie Zenor of Sausalito, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Zenor of Moraga.

The Spinsters will assist the Guardsmen in selling Christmas trees in San Francisco again this year, and are planning the annual Spinsters Ball on Feb. 9.

David A. Jacobsen Claims Bride

Alice Elizabeth Gatterdam of Petaluma became the bride of David A. Jacobsen of San Anselmo in a ceremony Saturday at the Lagunitas Country Club in Ross.

A reception at the club followed the ceremony.

Parents of the bride are Mrs. Moffitt Gatterdam and Richard Gatterdam of Petaluma. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. and Mrs. Alvin Jacobsen of San Anselmo.

Nancey Muir of San Anselmo was maid of honor, and best man was the bride's brother Richard Paul Gatterdam II of Tahoe City.

The bride was graduated from the Drew School in San Francisco and Grace Ball Secretarial School. James M. Gatterdam of San Anselmo is her brother. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Fennelly and Mrs. Nicholas J. Gatterdam.

David is the brother of Mrs. Daniel George of Novato and Mrs. Michael Cicero of San Anselmo. He was graduated from Sir Francis Drake High School and California State University, Chico. The bridegroom is employed by Jacobsen Machine Shop in San Rafael. Mrs. Ione Jacobsen of Long Beach is his grandmother.

The newlyweds are living in San Rafael.

"My husband found himself a younger woman... me."

Donna Dunio–
Scranton, Pennsylvania

"Elaine Powers gave my husband something I couldn't—a trimmer, younger looking wife. At 174 pounds, I looked and felt years older than 25. Dieting didn't help much, so finally I went to Elaine Powers. The instructors really took a personal interest, and that made a difference. When I got to my goal of 144 pounds, they told me I could be even slimmer. I made it all the way to 124, and size 9!
My husband says if I looked any younger, he'd be embarrassed to go out with me."

Denver Auto Dealers Gear Up Consumer Panel Effort

By RICHARD TUCKER
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

DENVER — Automobile dealers here are gearing for an effort they hope can help bridge a communications gap between dealers and consumers.

It's an attempt "to help clear up a situation that dealers have gotten themselves into," according to James Babcock, executive vice-president of the Metro Denver Auto Dealers Association (MDADA). And it's taking the form of an Auto Consumer Action Panel (Autocap), which should be under way in Denver and three suburban counties sometime this month.

The idea is to get consumers with complaints about repair service and the like to work together with car dealers. When a complaint comes to Autocap, Babcock said, the dealer involved will be notified immediately and an attempt will be made to get him to remedy the problem.

The dealer himself will be involved, Babcock emphasized, not the shop manager or employee who may have given the consumer "a runaround in the first place."

If nothing comes of initial talks, the problem will be turned over to an Autocap panel of four car dealers and a consumer representative.

ACCORDING to Babcock, the Denver Autocap effort will be the first such in the nation to include a consumer advocate on its panel. In a few areas, where similar programs are operating, the panels are composed exclusively of car dealers.

Four dealers already have volunteered to serve on the Autocap panel. The fifth member will be Mrs. Felicia Muftic, consumer-affairs representative in the office of Denver district attorney Dale Tooley.

The dealers reportedly asked for Mrs. Muftic, who handles all consumer complaints for the district attorney, because she is "both knowledgeable and fair."

Mrs. Muftic said she is looking forward to Autocap's getting underway because present operations are "less than satisfactory" for both her office and the auto dealers.

Before Autocap, she attempted to settle complaints through the district attorney's office by calling Babcock, who, in turn, would talk to the dealers. If nothing was accomplished the only recourse was for the complainant to go through small-claims court — which, Mrs. Muftic says, is largely "a middle-class recourse."

LOW-INCOME people usually don't have the time or the money to pursue a negligent or slow repair complaint through the courts, she feels.

A civil lawsuit still would be available to complainants under the Autocap system. But Babcock hopes problems can be resolved before reaching that point.

If a dealer refuses to go along with recommendations of the panel, some "teeth" to punish them will be put into MDADA regulations. But, according to Babcock, the nature of punishment has not yet been decided.

Besides involving auto dealers, an attempt is also being made to get car manufacturers into Denver's Autocap setup. Many consumer complaints stem from failure to deliver on new-car warranty promises, and only the manufacturer can make good on them.

NOT COVERED by the Autocap plan, though, are independent garage owners — the source of a great many consumer complaints. Because the independent garage owners are not members of the MDADA, the threat of punishment by the association doesn't mean anything to them.

In those cases, Mrs. Muftic said, she will have to do as she has done before —attempt to negotiate through the consumer-affairs section of the district attorney's office and advise complainants to take their claims to court.

A Simple Test For Bleachables

Hangtags and labels on most garments and household items indicate whether the fabric is bleachable. If in doubt, a simple test can be made by mixing one tablespoon of liquid bleach with ¼ cup water.

Apply one drop of this solution to an inconspicuous portion of the fabric. Be sure that the solution penetrates the fabric, let stand one minute, then blot dry with a paper towel. If there is no color change then the item can be safely bleached.

In some instances with non-colorfast fabrics, some color change or fading can be tolerated. Such items may be laundered separately in cool water with liquid bleach. Bleach the entire article to keep colors uniform.

lost 42½ inches • 36 pounds

"Dear Gloria,
I have never been so enthused about my figure program in my life.
I have tried many many ways to lose weight before coming to Gloria Marshalls. I tried going to a doctor for weight shots, other figure salons (gyms) and dieting on my own, nothing did the job!
With the encouragement and moral support from all the girls at Gloria Marshalls I was able to reach my goal, from a size 16-18 to my now perfect size 10. I also have boundless energy and a good feeling of accomplishment.
Gratefully Yours,
Pam Peters"

AT GUARD ARMORY

Cat Fanciers' Champions Chosen

By JEFF GREER

It was a nightmarish weekend for mice at the National Guard armory in Santa Venetia — the Marin County Car Fanciers Club held its 22nd championship show there Saturday and yesterday.

More than 200 cats of all sizes, colors, breeds and dispositions came from as far away as Seattle and Los Angeles.

Some of the owners decorated the cats' cages to match their pets' origins in Siam, Burma or elsewhere. One cat lived in a hippie-style pad complete with a waterbed.

Another had an elegant four-poster bed and a tintype ancestral portrait — of a cat, of course — on the wallpapered cage wall, and a yellow curtain to assure the cat privacy in its sandbox visits. Like many of the other cats in the show the occupant of the elegant cage chose to nap in its sandbox, spurning the four-poster.

Army M/Sgt. T. E. Green of 1125 Adrian Way, Santa Venetia, entered Zsa Zsa, his eight-month-old calico — and she charmed her way into a judge's heart the very first time shown. She won a fistful of ribbons — including a huge, brightly colored rosette for having the "best disposition of any household pet in the show."

"There's no breed standard for household pets," explained the cigar-smoking Army veteran. "Judges go by how well a cat has been cared for, and the disposition."

Zsa Zsa yawned.

"It's her first show, but I guess she's not excited by it all," Green said.

Green began showing cats years ago, when he was on duty in the armory during a show and was talked into entering one of his pets.

A handful of the cat owners also show dogs, including Helen Wyatt of 15 Gertrude Lane, Novato, and professional dog handler Gloria Mackay of Concord.

Cat shows are much quieter than the barking chaos of a dog show, Mrs. Mackay noted. "One time, they had organ music playing and I thought I really was in church," she reported.

"But the Siamese and the Burmese yell and shake the cages," she added. "The longhaired cats seem to be quieter."

PRETTY FACE — Judge Donald Swanson of San Francisco shows off the eyes and pushed-in face of a longhaired calico. The cat endured the handling patiently at first, then began to lash its tail but kept composure enough not to scratch the judge.

Each judge is surrounded on three sides by cages, in which the cats are placed to be removed one at a time by the judges, examined and put back.

Judges hold the cat up in the air, puff on its fur, stand it on a table — and frequently chatter both to the cat and to the tic gauntlets to keep her wrists from being scratched. But most of the cats seemed placid about it all, restraining themselves to a bit of disgruntled tail-lashing, flattening their ears, or if really annoyed, a hiss.

The owners who didn't win seemed much more upset about it all.

Mickey Mouse is going to ask for equal time in the armory, any day now.

A typical comment was, "It's really too early in the show season for longhaired cats."

Persian cat owner Mrs. Mackay explained that the show cats are literally shaved down each April, and are shown only from October through March, reaching their best "coat" in January or later.

Petaluman Shot To Death; Wife Wounds Assailant

A Petaluma man was shot to death Saturday and his assailant critically wounded, police said today.

The man, James Powers, who had managed to find a hiding place when first fired on, emerged and went to his death to save the life of his 8-year-old son.

Police said Powers, 38, was shot by Olga Alexis Liubinsky, 43, of San Francisco, at 2:15 p.m. in the family room of his home at 1727 Pauline Way. Mrs. Liubinsky was in turn shot in the head by Power's wife, Barbara, 35.

Mrs. Liubinsky was reported in critical condition at Santa Rosa Memorial Hospital. Sonoma County Dist. Atty. John W. Hawkes said doctors have indicated she is not expected to live. She was charged with first degree murder and booked in absentia into Petaluma jail.

The bloodshed apparently began when Mrs. Liubinsky went to the Powers home and found him standing in the open garage. Unofficial reports indicated Powers had been attempting to break off an affair with Mrs. Liubinsky.

Neighbors said the pair talked for a few minutes in the garage. Then Mrs. Liubinsky opened fire on him with a .22-caliber revolver.

Powers was unharmed and took cover in a bathroom adjacent to the garage.

Mrs. Liubinsky reportedly then entered the family room of the home and placed the gun to the head of Power's 8-year-old son, James, and threatened to shoot him if the father didn't appear.

When Powers entered the room he was shot once through the heart and died immediately as his son looked on.

Mrs. Powers in the meantime had been telephoned by Rose Marie Torina, a neighbor across the street, and was warned that the woman was in the home.

According to reports, Mrs. Powers went to an upstairs bedroom, got a .38-caliber revolver and shot Mrs. Liubinsky once in the head.

Police found both bodies slumped in a pool of blood on stairs leading into the family room.

Mrs. Liubinsky had been arrested Nov. 15 on suspicion of the Nov. 2 kidnapping of Mrs. Powers. She had been freed on $1,000 cash bail the next day by Southern Sonoma Municipal Court Judge Alexander J. McMahon. She had been scheduled for a court appearance today to enter a plea to the charge.

Mrs. Powers had complained that Mrs. Liubinsky came to her home Nov. 2 and forced her into a car at gunpoint. Mrs. Powers had been released unharmed after several hours of driving around the Petaluma area in which the women reportedly discussed the romantic triangle.

Unofficial reports also indicated that Mrs. Liubinsky had attempted to shoot Powers a month ago at his job as a machinist at Hunter's Point Naval Shipyards. Reports showed the woman was angered over Power's decision to end their affair and shot at him twice, but missed.

The fatal gunplay Saturday night horrified neighbors.

"It's a shame... we just can't believe it... I'm in a state of shock..." were the predominant feelings expressed by neighbors.

"They're a lovely family," said Mary Ellen Courier, one of the neighbors. "You just couldn't have had better neighbors than the Powers family."

All agreed that the family led a very quiet life and expressed amazement at the shootings.

Some nearby residents were aware that the Powers family had been bothered previously by Mrs. Liubinsky and that the family was concerned she might return to cause more trouble.

Neighbors said the family had recently purchased the .38-caliber revolver for protection against Mrs. Liubinsky.

Mrs. Courier said the couple had also started to drive their two daughters and son to school instead of permitting them to walk the few blocks to La Tercera school.

Speed Limit Cut Won't Hurt Buses

President Nixon's decision to cut speed limits will have little effect on Marin and Sonoma bus commuters using Golden Gate Transit, its manager said today.

The President's initial proposal on Nov. 7 for a uniform limit of 50 miles an hour triggered a warning by bus transit manager H. Donald White that it would dump some 2,000 commuters from the buses because drivers would not have time to make more than one run during peak travel periods.

Nixon's announcement last night, however, that intercity buses will be allowed a 55-mile-an-hour speed limit "means a heck of a lot to us," White told the Independent-Journal. The extra speed will be especially critical in maintaining speeds on hills, he said.

Schedules will have to be changed "by a minute or two," White added, "but not enough to really hurt us." He said the extra speed margin should mean continued service to every present bus rider — "if we get enough fuel, of course."

White said he was testing fuel consumption today and tomorrow to see how much he will save by cutting bus speed to 55.

Final congressional approval of legislation empowering the President to impose the speed limit and other energy controls is expected next week.

14 Persons Receive Citizenship

Fourteen residents of Marin and Southern Sonoma were naturalized last month in U.S. District Court in San Francisco. They are:

FAIRFAX — George Gustav Beander of 19 Crescent Circle.

LARKSPUR — Josephine Glembotzki of 10 Post Street.

PETALUMA — Fe Genson Coate of 80 Oakwood Drive and Oscar Ballesteros Zapanta of Coast Guard Training Center.

SAN RAFAEL — Vidya Lakishmi Pal of 50 Bendola Drive, Hendrik Jan Van Dyke of 31 Twelve Oak Hill Drive, Yvonne Jane Inger Klein of 74 Fairway Drive and Rene Sommer of 16 Dellwood Court; Joerg (Jack) M. Kruusmagi and Thomas H. Kruusmagi, both of 229 Southern Heights Boulevard.

Mill Valley Man Is Found Dead

A Mill Valley resident, believed to be in his 80s, has been found dead at his home at 20 Cascade Way where an unvented gas heater was believed to have been burning for several days.

Neighbors had complained to police that they had not seen John Cowles for several days. Police broke into his house Saturday and found his body in the kitchen.

The coroner's office said that Cowles was apparently dead for about two days. He also had complained recently of stomach pains, according to the coroner's office.

Neighbors said that Cowles was a retired photographer who once worked in San Francisco. He had lived in Mill Valley for about 25 years.

Smith Ranch Airport Not Closed Down Yet

Smith Ranch Airport, a private air facility north of Santa Venetia ordered to close by last Monday, is still operating.

"We're negotiating with the Larwin Corp. for a lease," said airport manager Robert De Young. "We hope we're going to be able to stay."

The Larwin Corp., a Los Angeles-based development firm that owns the land on which the airport is built, last September ordered the facility to remove "existing buildings and to shut down" within two months.

San Rafael attorney William Hochman, Larwin's representative, said today the firm's notice is still in effect, and said the airport's "termination will be on an orderly basis."

"Obviously, either alternative arrangements are made or suits are filed" he said, adding he was not at liberty to discuss the matter.

De Young said current negotiations between airport officials and corporate representatives are "the last go round with Larwin."

The firm has reviewed the airport, which lies within San Rafael city limits, as clouding future development negotiations which it may have with the city over the 206-acre property it owns in the area.

The firm's decision two months ago to cancel its monthly lease with the airport came on the heels of a revelation by the San Rafael city administration that 53 airplanes were hangared at the facility, despite a use permit which allows only 35 planes to use it.

The private airport has served small craft for decades, and has been eyed by flying enthusiasts as a potential commercial facility.

Centennial Plans Group Will Meet

The San Rafael Centennial committee will meet at 3 p.m. Thursday in the San Rafael city schools administration building, according to program chairman Jean Kelly.

The group will hear reports from various subcommittees and discuss the program for the centennial celebration, she said.

Drug And Illness Symposium Slated

A symposium on drug addiction and terminal illness will be held at 7 p.m. tomorrow at Marin Open House, 1466 Lincoln Avenue.

A panel of doctors and drug experts will lead the discussion, entitled "Death and Dying, Life and Living," according to spokesman Michael Walti.

The moon is between the new phase and first quarter. The morning stars are Mercury and Saturn. The evening stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter.

John Harvard, founder of Harvard University, was born Nov. 26, 1607.

On this day in history:

In 1789, President George Washington set this day aside as one of national thanksgiving for adoption of the United States Constitution.

In 1930, one-fourth of all office space in New York City's skyscrapers was vacant due to the Depression.

In 1940, the Nazis forced half a million Jews in Warsaw to live in a ghetto surrounded by an eight-foot concrete wall.

In 1968, South Vietnam agreed to take part in the Paris peace talks.

Actor Relieved About TV Show

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Lorne Greene, whose new television series "Griff" was canceled in mid-season, says, "I'm relieved. I take full responsibility for the show."

Greene starred as Cart-Carwright for 14 years in the "Bonanza" series and after its demise earlier this year changed western garb for a contemporary role as a detective in "Griff."

"I think if a man can face success," he said, "he should be able to take failure, too."

LOW TRUMP

West opened a low trump, and South won with the nine. Declarer led the jack of diamonds, and West took the ace. West returned another trump, and South won with the ten.

South led a low diamond and ruffed with dummy's king of hearts. He then returned to his hand by the safest route, by overtaking the queen of clubs with his ace of clubs.

RUFFS WITH ACE

South then led his last low diamond and ruffed with dummy's ace of hearts. West gladly got rid of his singleton spade, and now declarer was dead. He couldn't get back to his hand to draw West's remaining trumps.

SPADE ENTRY

South needed to return to his hand twice. He would naturally want to use the ace of spades and the ace of clubs for this purpose.

Since both must be used, South should decide which to use first. South should use the spade entry first, before an opponent has had the chance to discard a spade. The clubs will be safe later on.

SIMPLE ANSWER

Why doesn't South have to worry about a club discard if he uses the ace of spades first? Simple arithmetic provides the answer. The opponents have only five spades between them, but have nine clubs. A spade discard is therefore far more dangerous than a club discard.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner deals and bids one diamond, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - A K 4 2
♡ - J 9 7 5 4 2
◇ - 4
♣ - K Q.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one heart. Respond in the six-card suit rather than the four-card suit. Length is more important than strength.

Events Scheduled For Candidates

These events are planned this week for Corte Madera Town Council candidates:

A luncheon for Jana Haehl will be at 11:30 a.m. tomorrow at Twin Cities Co-op Nursery School, 56 Mohawk Avenue and a coffee for her will be at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the James A. Laviletta home, 6 Foremost Cove.

A coffee for Mrs. Haehl and Phil Sasso will be at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the Donald L. Horne home, 129 Yolo Street.

A party for Mrs. Haehl will be from 4 to 6 p.m. Sunday at the Robert A. Field home, 394 Corte Madera Avenue.

Off Street Parking Issue Before Agency

The Mill Valley Planning Commission will consider whether the new tenant of the city-owned bus depot should provide off-street parking when it meets at 8 p.m. today.

Lendon C. Ganey, operate of Rafael Book and News in San Rafael, plans a combined bookstore and coffee shop in the building.

5 MILES VERSUS $20,000

Are you willing to drive an extra 5 miles and save $20,000? The extra 5 miles will get you: A 2 story contemporary home done in knotty pine with cathedral beam ceilings, 3 bdrms., 2 baths, a family rm. and a den, a perfect in-law arrangement. A 16x32 pool with complete privacy. A home nestled in the hillside with a deck & a view of the Hills of Marin. A large lot with a lawn and a wide variety of fruit & evergreen trees. A pond with a Japanese footbridge. The difference in miles is small, the difference in price is enormous.

Public Notice

PUBLIC NOTICE OF REQUEST FOR STATE CERTIFICATION OF DOCK OPERATION, MAINTENANCE DREDGING AND DREDGED SPOIL DISPOSAL BY MR. PAUL KALMANOVITZ 114 JAMAICA TIBURON, CALIFORNIA

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that Mr. Paul Kalmanovitz has applied to the State Water Resources Control Board, pursuant to the provisions of Section 401, Federal Water Pollution Control Act Amendments of 1972 for certification to the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers that the clamshell dredging in an existing channel along San Francisco Bay at Paradise Cay, Marin County, California, and the disposal of the dredged spoil by Mr. Paul Kalmanovitz, as described below, will not violate the California Water Quality Control Board, or any applicable Federal standards.

Mr. Paul Kalmanovitz intends to perform maintenance dredging of an existing channel three feet deep, 20 to 30 feet wide and 650 feet long (approximately 1600 cubic yards) to allow access to the Bay with his boat. The existing channel is used by residents of the community. The material to be dredged is mud and silt which has been deposited by tidal action. The estimated date of commencement is within six weeks after permits are obtained and will be completed within ten days. Spoil will be removed mechanically by clamshell dredge and subsequently deposited in the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers Disposal Site No. 3 near Alcatraz Island, San Francisco, California.

Concerned parties should transmit to Fred H. Dierker, Executive Officer, California Regional Water Quality Control Board, San Francisco Bay Region, 364 - 14th Street, Oakland, California 94612, any relevant information or objections by December 26, 1973.

Public Notice

Public Notice of Request for State Certification of Dock Operation, Dredging and Dredged Spoil Disposal by Golden Gate Bridge, Highway and Transportation District San Francisco, California 94129

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Golden Gate Bridge, Highway and Transportation District has applied to the State Water Resources Control Board, pursuant to the provisions of Section 401, Federal Water Pollution Control Act Amendments of 1972 for certification to the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers that the operation of the Larkspur Ferry Terminal in the estuary of Corte Madera Creek, Marin County, California, the hydraulic and clamshell dredging of an approach channel and the harbor area, and the subsequent disposal of the dredged spoil by the applicant, as described below will not violate the California Water Quality Control Plan, requirements adopted by the Regional Water Quality Board, or any applicable Federal Standards.

The Golden Gate Bridge, Highway and Transportation District intends to operate a ferry service between San Francisco and Larkspur, California. The Larkspur Ferry Terminal project includes a terminal, parking area, boarding and maintenance floats, fuel storage tanks, riprap along edge of channel, and commercial facilities. Sanitary wastes will be transferred from holding tanks in the ferry vessels to the ferry terminal by means of a float with "snap-on" connections. The ferry terminal will be served by Marin County Sanitary District No. 1. Approximately 1,514,000 cubic yards will be dredged from the turning basin at the terminal site in the estuary of Corte Madera Creek and the approach channel to the terminal site. The channel will be approximately 350 feet wide. An additional 5,000 cubic yards of quarry waste fill will be dredged at the perimeter of the terminal site facilities. The dredging will be to elevation -15 feet mean Lower Low Water (MLLW) in the terminal basin and to -13 feet MLLW in the approach channel. The proposed dredging is scheduled to begin in December, 1973 and to be completed by June, 1974. A suction dredge will be used for excavating approximately 750,000 cubic yards of material polluted with heavy metals and organics which is to be disposed of on a land site known as the Muzzi property. The remaining 764,000 cubic yards of material will be removed mechanically by clamshell dredge and subsequently deposited in the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers Disposal Site No. 3 near Alcatraz Island, San Francisco, California. Concerned parties should transmit to Fred H. Dierker, Executive Officer, California Regional Water Quality Control Board, San Francisco Bay Region, 364 - 14th Street, Oakland, California 94612, any relevant information or objections by December 28, 1973.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS MOVABLE PARTITIONS

1. NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Board of Supervisors of the County of Marin, State of California, will receive sealed bids for the furnishing of all labor, materials, transportation, and services required for construction of movable partitions at the Marin County Civic Center, Highway 101 and North San Pedro Road, Marin County, California.
2. Each bid shall be in accordance with the Drawings, Specifications and Contract Documents prepared therefor, now on file with the Director of Public Works, Administration Building, Marin County Civic Center.
3. Bids shall be submitted upon proposal forms furnished by the County of Marin, in accordance with regulations as set forth in "Instructions to Bidders," and shall be accompanied by certified check or bid bond, where required, as specificed in instructions to Bidders.
4. Bids shall be delivered to the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors, Administration Building, Marin County Civic Center, San Rafael, California, on or before 2:00 P.M., December 4, 1973, and will be opened and read publicly at that time.
5. The Board of Supervisors of the County of Marin reserves the right to reject any or all bids or unit prices, waive any irregularities in any bid and to contract work with whomever, and in whatever manner it may determine. No bidder may withdraw his bid for a period of 45 days after the date set for the opening thereof.
6. All bidders and Subcontractors shall be licensed at the time of bid date by the Contractor's State License Board of the State of California to perform the work herein described.
7. Where so indicated a bond will be required for the faithful performance of the Contract in an amount of not less than 100% of the amount of the bid, and a bond will be required to guarantee the payment of wages for services engaged and all bids contracted for materials used in the performance of the contract in an amount of not less than 50% of the bid.
8. Bidders are hereby notified that pursuant to the Statutes of the State of California, or local law thereto applicable, the Board of Supervisors has ascertained the general prevailing rate of per diem wages in the locality in which work is to be performed, for each craft or type or workman or mechanic needed to execute this contract. The prevailing rates so determined are based on an 8-hour day, 40-hour week, except as otherwise noted. Existing agreement between the Building Trades and the Construction Industry groups relative to overtime, holidays and other special provisions shall be recognized.
9. WAGE SCALE
Summary
This section lists the minimum wages that may be paid on work on this project, in conformance with the Statutes of the State of California.
SCHEDULE EXPLANATION
a. The prevailing rates are based on the normal work week for each trade. Existing agreements between the Building Trades and Construction Industry Groups relative to overtime, holidays and other special provisions shall be recognized.
b. Verification and further inquiries with respect to these rates and for classifications or trades not listed should be made at the Building and Trades Council, Marin County, California.
c. The attention of the bidders is directed to the provisions of the specifications relative to labor.

Small Car Boom Aided By Nixon

DETROIT (UPI) — President Nixon's new energy-saving measures are expected to push more Americans into small cars and send already-slumping new car sales even lower.

The only immediate reaction to the President's message last night was from General Motors, which said: "We share his concern and believe if we all work together we can certainly get through this difficult time."

But one industry executive was even more cautious, saying "the threat of rationing is still there, and that's not going to help us."

New car sales have been off about 11 per cent from last year's record pace since the 1974 models were introduced in September. The mid-November figures due from the "big four" today will show another slump.

The thought of what the future may hold in the form of gas rationing or a ban on Sunday driving is making some people hold off on a new car purchase.

"I've been looking at the small cars, but I'm not sure what I'll do until this energy thing is straightened out," remarked Joe Morgan, a 28-year-old suburban insurance salesman touring the just completed Detroit auto show.

"Why should I invest in a new car now and then see it sit in the garage," he said. "Anyway, a couple of dealers I talked to won't even give me what my old car (a full-sized 1972 Buick Electra) is worth and they want sticker price for the smaller model I was looking at."

General Motors Corp., the world's largest automaker, already has reacted to the slump in sales which have hit the full-size and intermediates the hardest. The compacts, subcompacts and luxury models are selling at record or near record rates with a wait of two months not uncommon for some subcompacts.

GM plans to shut 16 of its assembly plants during the week before Christmas, cutting 79,000 intermediate and full-size cars from its production schedules.

Financial Experts End Talks

TOURS, France (UPI) — A secret two-day meeting of government finance experts of the world's leading non-Communist industrial countries on the energy and monetary crisis ended today at a guarded chateau in the Loire valley.

French Finance Minister Valery Giscard d'Estaing in a statement to the press said the conference concerned reform of the international monetary system, inflation and the consequences of the energy crisis including the Arab oil boycott and production cutback.

U.S. Secretary of the Treasury George P. Shultz, British Chancellor of the Exchequer Anthony Barber, West German Finance Minister Helmut Schmidt, Giscard d'Estaing of France and Japanese Deputy Finance Minister Joichi Inamira gathered beginning Saturday in the 60-room Chateau d'Artigny in the Tours area.

Giscard d'Estaing said the conversations at the secrecy shrouded conference produced "positive judgements and elements." He declined to say if these included decisions concerning the threat of a world economic decline due to inflation, monetary instability and the loss of Arab oil.

"We covered all those questions. The conversations were in depth and very frank and this frankness explains the discretion which surrounded the meeting", the French finance minister said.

"The principle of the meeting was set at the Nairobi meeting of finance ministers this fall and was identical to a meeting we had once before in Washington."

The U.S. delegation also included Federal Reserve Board chairman Arthur F. Burns and Deputy Treasury Secretary Paul A. Volcker, unofficial French reports said.

(Cesidio Guazzaroni, the Italian Foreign Ministry's Director of Economic Affairs, summoned the ambassadors of France, West Germany and Britain to his Rome office to express Italy's "surprise and keen concern" over the weekend meeting.

SALEM, Ore. (UPI) — It is illegal in Oregon to hynotize a person in the presence of others for entertainment purposes.

ROLLIN' ALONG IN RALEIGH

A sunny day, a few old scrap tires and some energetic boys and girls provided all the ingredients for a fun time in the park in Raleigh, N.C., during the Thanksgiving holidays. (UPI Telephoto)

Other areas:
San Francisco, no record.
San Jose, light air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources but the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

45 Are Killed On State Roads

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Forty-five persons were killed in California over the Thanksgiving weekend, the lowest number of fatalities for the holiday period since the Highway Patrol started counting in 1963.

The last two deaths in the period, which began at 6 p.m. Friday and ended 12 midnight yesterday, were reported in Pittsburgh and Oceanside, the patrol said.

Sixty-two deaths were reported last year. The previous low was 49 in 1964.

Bond Consultant Hiring On Agenda

Hiring of a financial consultant to handle the recently approved police station bond issue will be discussed by the Mill Valley City Council at 8 p.m. today at the library gallery.

The council also will consider a proposed ordinance to require planning, art and youth commissioners to forfeit offices for missing three consecutive meetings.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Sudden Infant Death Syndrome Breakthrough Might Be Near

A breakthrough in the cause of sudden infant death syndrome (SIDS) may be in the offing to help reduce the 10,000 fatalities in babies from two to five months of age. It centers on sleep apnea, a phenomenon in which the breathing impulse temporarily stops. Parents who have lost children to SIDS will be thankful, because it is a dreadful experience to discover a previously healthy baby, dead in his crib.

SIDS is a silent killer, and autopsy studies have failed to find the cause. Theories include suffocation, inhaling the vomited gastric contents, allergy to cow's milk, respiratory infections, brain hemorrhage, and various deficiencies involving immunity. In many instances, it is believed that the larynx goes into spasm producing asphyxiation.

HOWEVER, THIS is difficult to prove because the muscles of the voice box relax at the moment of death. Victims of SIDS have been found with blankets on or off, and on their abdomen, back, or side. This is mentioned because parents live for years with feelings of guilt believing that they were responsible.

Studies show that most of us have periods of sleep apnea during which we stop breathing. Brain wave measurements on infants show that at five months of age the pattern of the waves in sleep and on waking begins to resemble that of adults. A relationship between immaturity of certain brain centers and response to sleep apnea may play a causative role, because SIDS occurs in the first five months of life, and more so between the first and third month.

TO PUT THIS another way, apneic spells are normal, but apparently poorly tolerated by certain infants. During these periods, the pulse shows and the blood pressure drops. And babies at high risk of SIDS have a reduced response to stimulation when the air is cut off by covering the baby's nose and mouth. The normal infant moves the mouth, head, and heands when he does not get enough air. Monitors are available for high risk babies, but these devices cause more anxiety than needed because of the high incidence of false alarms.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to Dr. Van Dellen, c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902. Telephone inquiries will not be answered.

DON'T EAT LEAVES

M.H. writes: Will eating too much rhubarb affect the joints of an older person?

REPLY

Too much, too little, or just enough rhubarb has neither good nor ill effects on the old hinges. Cutting the rhubarb in the garden is likely to limber up the joints. The stalks of this plant are edible, but the leafy portion is poisonous because is contains oxalic acid. Among the manifestations of poisoning are nausea, vomiting, diarrhea, abdominal pain, reduced urine formation, and hemorrhages.

ALCOHOL AS CRUTCH

S.M. writes: Why does a person start drinking for no apparent reason? The woman to whom I refer has a lovely home and no financial worries.

REPLY

All you see it the veneer. This woman may give the impression that all is well. Considerably study may be needed to uncover the reasons why she is trying to escape reality. Meanwhile, send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on alcoholism.

TV VIEWING

Mrs. C. writes: Continuous reading doesn't bother my eyes, but watching TV makes them hurt instantly. The optician has told me that my glasses do not need changing. P.S. I am 63 years old.

REPLY

Your glasses may be adequate for reading, but not for television. On the other hand, there may be something else wrong with your eyes that requires the attention of an ophthalmologist. I assume your television is tuned properly. Some people are bothered when the screen flickers too much — to the extent of developing convulsions. Darkness also influences eyeball tension and televiewing should be avoided if glaucoma exists.

HEIR, HAIR, OR HARE?

Mrs. R.D. writes: Someone told me the reasons a child is born with a hair lip is because there was a hair in the uterus. What is your opinion?

REPLY

Your friend is misinformed, although the uterus during pregnancy always harbors a potential heir. A mistake in spelling may have confused you girls. It is harelip, so named because the defect resembles the upper lip of a hare or rabbit.

NEARSIGHTEDNESS

A reader writes: During my military stint in Germany and France, I noticed that fewer Europeans, especially young people, wore glasses. Is this because of their diet or because they don't do as much close work as we do?

REPLY

Neither of these factors causes nearsightedness. This trait is hereditary and is more common in some races than in others — the Japanese, for example.

VITAMIN C

I.F. writes: Will vitamin C tablets show up the growth of cataracts?

Not to my knowledge. There is no relationship between vitamin C and the lenses of the eyes.

Ford Recalling '74 Continentals

DETROIT (UPI) - The Ford Motor Co. today said it was recalling 17,744 current model Lincoln Continentals because of a possible short circuit from an improperly routed starter cable.

It was about 75 per cent of the 1974 model Continentals produced so far in this model year. The company also said it was recalling 360 current-model Cougars to find an estimated 25 in which it may not be possible to fully engage the automatic transmission "park" mechanism.

The starter cable problem on the Continentals affects about 1,400 cars, a spokesman said.

Alaska Is Cautioning Job Hunters

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — The Alaska oil rush is on but workers heading for the Yukon to prospect for jobs may well end up panning for their fortune on the unemployment line.

Alaska, which had its last massive influx of fortune hunters in a turn-of-the-century gold rush, is bracing for another mass immigration of job seekers for the trans-Alaska oil pipeline project. But this time it's different.

Alaska already has a high unemployment rate, and ablebodied natives are on the scene ready to work.

About 13,000 persons will be employed on the pipeline at the height of construction on 1975-76, according to public relations chief Robert Miller of Alyeska Pipeline Service Co. The firm will build the pipeline through contractors.

"Only 450 of those will remain in Alaska on a permanent basis after the pipeline is completed," Miller said — one in Anchorage, 100 in Fairbanks, 150 at the tankers terminal in Valdez and 100 strung along the route."

Miller said the spinoff for related services will add an additional 10,000 jobs for a total work force of 20,000 to 25,000 jobs.

"Alaska already has a nearly 10 per cent unemployment rate," said employment center manager Arthur G. Zillig, who added that "the state could provide up to 15,000 of those jobs at the drop of a hat."

Alyeska is negotiating with the Alaska Federation of Natives to hire at least 2,200 and perhaps 3,000 Indians for the project. "The state could provide all the workers needed," Miller reported.

State officials and Alyeska are worried. Health and social services officers say 300 new persons are arriving in the state monthly... looking for jobs... and applying for welfare.

Frederick P. McGinnis, commissioner of the Department of Social Services, said 220 persons have applied for food stamps in Anchorage in the past six weeks, all of them out-of-state arrivals seeking pipeline or pipeline-related jobs.

One day recently a string of 70 applicants began arriving at his office at 2 a.m. in frigid temperatures in an effort to be one of the 20 to 25 cases the office can process each day.

Miller said his office in Anchorage is averaging 50 letters and 30 long-distance phone calls a day inquiring about pipeline jobs, "and our Houston, Tex.; Bellevue, Wash.; Washington, D.C.; and Fairbanks offices are taking the same load."

"We've had 11 per cent unemployment earlier this year," confirmed one employment division spokesman, "and it's going to get worse. I don't think we can stop the influx."

Honolulu Girl Is Miss Teen

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) - Lori Lei Matsukawa, 17, the new Miss Teen-Age America, plans to use her $10,000 four-year scholarship to major in music at Northwestern University. She wants to become a music teacher and possibly the author of children's books.

Miss Matsukawa, who was chosen the 13th Miss Teen-Age America Saturday night at the end of the week's competition, is an "A" student as a senior in Aiea High School, near Honolulu, where her father is personnel director of the department of education and her mother a teacher.

She will serve as a spokesman for a cold drink company's (Dr. Pepper) ecology program and as youth travel consultant and good will ambassador for an airline (Braniff) during her year's reign.

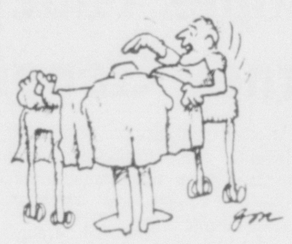
LAW IN ACTION
From the State Bar Of California

Bonds Needed In Some Suits



Sometimes when you file a lawsuit, you must put up a bond. That is to protect the other person in case you lose.

The clerk of the court would not accept Hy's complaint until he posted a $2,500 bond. If Hy doesn't have the money, or has a very strong case, he may prove this to the court in a hearing. Then the court may excuse him from posting the bond. But here Hy had money and his claim seemed questionable. The court said he had to put up the $2,500.

Hy refused, and took his case to a higher court. He said the law favored doctors over patients. The court upheld the law.

This law was adopted in 1969 to cut down questionable medical malpractice suits. Sometimes people file suits merely as a "wedge" to get some money.

In 1972 the law was changed again. The person who sues may have to post further security. The court may order the $2,500 bond used to pay the doctor's court costs and reasonable attorney fees.

There are other kinds of suits that require security. A plaintiff who is a non-resident, may have to post a bond to cover costs. This gives the successful defendant a way to recover his defense costs.

Another kind of suit involves a stockholder who sues the corporation to get a look at company records.

*Suits against the government.

*Property owners who have a dispute against a builder or repairman and who join the engineer or architect in the suit.

*Suits that say someone lied about you.

Budget Rapped

SAN JOSE (AP) — United Professors of California says next year's proposed $481.9 million budget for the California State University system is "deficient." The 4,000-member organization claims the budget will bring higher student-teacher ratios and cut out faculty research funds.

To Talk Wednesday

Teenagers don't know enough about sex.

They just think they do. And that's the problem. Because ignorance and misinformation can lead to trouble. And often do.

Our free booklet has authoritative facts. Send for it, because it might keep your teenager out of trouble.

Karabian Hopes Fancy Dinners Cinch Attorney General Primary

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assemblyman Walter Karabian, who parlays elegant food, fine wine and imported cigars into political contributions, said today a whopping $650,000 has been pledged to his primary campaign for attorney general.

The balding 35-year-old Democrat has perfected the art of the political fundraising dinner from mashed potatoes and roast chicken to what one supporter calls a "sumptuous evening."

And, Karabian confidently predicted the only way he could lose the Democratic nomination in June is to "someone who had more money than I have and would use that money in a big television campaign."

So far, he is the only Democrat to formally announce for the post now held by Republican Evelle J. Younger, who is expected to run for governor.

He throws elegant dinners and invites prosperous friends and supporters, many of them college chums from the University of Southern California, Karabian said lobbyists are not invited.

Robert Chick, a Los Angeles insurance executive and Karabian fundraiser, described the candidate's supporters as longtime friends.

"They feel there is a need for them to be involved in community life," said Chick, an aide to former Gov. Edmund G. Brown. "They feel they found in Walter an intelligent, creative and responsible public figure. They are willing to commit themselves."

Karabian said in an interview that $414,000 of his pledges for $650,000 will be raised at an extravagant dinner Feb. 9 at the Beverly Hilton. The dinner itself is expected to cost roughly $40,000.

Already, he has grossed $240,000 from previous similar fundraisers. His goal was to net $500,000 for the primary campaign.

Karabian said the $414,000 was pledged to him at a recent private dinner at a fancy Los Angeles restaurant. About 130 friends and supporters were treated to a sumptuous meal, the best wines and imported after-dinner cigars.

Then the participants individually committed themselves to sell tickets or buy tickets at $200 a copy to the Feb. 9 fundraiser. If they were unable to sell the number they had agreed to, they would make up the difference from their own resources.

"It was spectacularly successful," said Chick. "There were 207 tables pledged at $2,000 a table for a sum of $414,000."

Karabian, a lawyer in his fourth term in the Assembly, included in his list of supporters Mike Garrett, running back for the San Diego Chargers professional football team; Southern California bankers Jack Arakelian and John Gabriel; Richard Hernandez, a Los Angeles attorney; Michael Bagdasarian, an insurance executive; and Mark Boyer, a long-time Democratic philanthropist.

Karabian, who favors repeal of criminal penalties for possession and use of marijuana, views himself now as virtually unbeatable in the June primary.

Scali Improving

GOP Sees 'Dummy' Demo Units

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Republican State Central Committee has charged that "dummy organizations" have been used to conceal the names of contributors to the California Democratic Party.

The practice which the GOP complained about yesterday has also been apparently used by the state Republican Party in the past.

Paul Haerle of San Francisco, state Republican vice chairman, said the "phony" Democratic groups were the "Political Action Committee 12" and the "Democratic Political Action Committee 14."

One committee formed by the state GOP party for the 1972 elections was called "Californians for a More Responsible Legislature." It spent $229,361 on GOP candidates.

Haerle also charged Democratic Secretary of State Edmund Brown Jr. a contender for governor, with "partisan connivance" to conceal fund sources.

Haerle's statement said one of the attempts to conceal the source of contributions was the listing of the California Democratic Party as a contributor to the Democratic Political Action Committee 14.

The GOP statement declared that California Democratic Party is a "euphemism" for the Democratic State Central Committee.

Haerle said the campaign contribution report for the 12th district committee did not show any donors.

AFTER WHIPPING CHARGERS

Raiders 'Can Control Situation'

OAKLAND (UPI) - Now the American Football Conference West season is down to a three-game race, and the Oakland Raiders, no strangers to pressure situations, are right in the middle of the action.

The Raiders, taking advantage of San Diego mistakes, beat the Chargers 31-3 yesterday while the Denver Broncos, surprise team of the AFC this year, upended the Kansas City Chiefs 14-10.

As a result, the Broncos are in first place today with a 6-3-2 record while Oakland and Kansas City are tied for second at 6-4-1. The Broncos host Dallas, Kansas City hosts Cleveland and Oakland is at Houston Next Sunday.

"We got by the first week of this four-week thing," Raiders Coach John Madden said after yesterday's rain-drenched victory over the Chargers. "Now there are three to go. Fortunately for us, we can control the situation because we still have to play the Chiefs and Broncos, and both on our home field."

Oakland's defense came up with another fine game on a slippery field. In the last three weeks that unit has given up nearly 27 points but the Raiders lost two of those games.

The Raider offense, thanks to San Diego mistakes, came to life yesterday after 17-9 and 7-3 losses to Pittsburgh and Cleveland on successive weeks.

Ken Stabler completed 12 of 22 pases for 165 yards and two touchdowns, workhorse Charlie Smith ran for another TD, George Atkinson scored on a 59-yard fumble recovery and George Blanda booted a 34-yard field goal for the Raider points. Dennis Partee's 14-yard field goal accounted for San Diego's lone points.

A 50-yard pass-run play with Stabler throwing to Mike Siani set up Smith's TD. On the play Siani went down hard on the San Diego 19 and fumbled the ball but the officials ruled the play dead. Instant replay seemed to indicate a fumble and San Diego recovery and Charger Coach Ron Walker called it "an awful decision."

"When the officials didn't call the fumble on Siani," said Waller, "it took the starch out of us. To that point we had played the Raiders pretty evenly but when something like that (call) goes against you it can turn a game around."

SHALL WE DANCE? — While it appeared yesterday that San Diego tight end Pettis Norman (88) was dancing with Oakland linebacker Gerald Irons (86) as Raider Phil Villapiano tried to cut in, the trio was battling for position on a muddy Oakland Coliseum football field. Norman was leading the blocking for Charger running back Cid Edwards (not shown) as Irons and Villapiano closed in for the second quarter tackle. Oakland won the National Football League game, 31-3.

CONTROVERSY FLARES

Ohio State Gets Rose Bowl Spot

CHICAGO (UPI) - Ohio State will represent the best of Big Ten football in the Rose Bowl but arguments over the vote that favored OSU over Michigan may run on long after the game is over.

Especially if Woody Hayes' Buckeyes don't do better than their 42-17 loss to Southern California in last year's New Year's Day classic.

Hayes was "delighted" with yesterday's announcement of his team's selection, Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler was "bitter and resentful," and Big Ten Commissioner Wayne Duke was busy answering irate telephone callers.

Duke, who polled the 10 athletic directors and announced the result, said he received a barrage of calls, assailing the selection of Ohio State and accusing the Big Ten sports bosses of prejudice.

Duke refused to reveal how the vote went and the 10 athletic directors were under orders to stay mum on the matter.

But Minnesota's Paul Giel said publicly he voted for Michigan. Unofficial sources said the balloting was 6-4 for Ohio State.

Burt Smith of Michigan State had been quoted by unofficial sources as voting for Ohio State, but he refused comment.

A tie at 5-5 would have made Michigan the winner, according to conference rules regarding the naming of a team which made the Pasadena trip a year earlier. Thus a vote against Michigan by neighboring MSU at East Lansing would be crucial.

It was believed a broken right collarbone suffered by Michigan's quarterback, Dennis Franklin in Saturday's 10-10 with Ohio State may have been uppermost in the minds of the athletic directors hoping for the big ten's first rose bowl success since 1969.

Schembechler thought so. "That and petty jealousies. How do they know Ohio State's quarterback Cornelius Greene won't get hurt in practice?" Schembechler snapped.

About the "other eight" of the Big Ten, Minnesota finished the conference campaign with a 6-2 record by beating Wisconsin 19-17, Northwestern defeated Illinois 9-6 to pull into a fourth place tie with the Illini, Purdue and Michigan State, all with 4-4 credentials.

IN 'BIG GAME'

Stanford's Victory Could Influence The Recruitment

STANFORD (UPI) - The 1973 "Big Game" between Stanford and California is a matter of record today and it's effects will be felt in the coming weeks as the respective coaching staffs of the two schools hit the recruiting trail.

"It's hard to measure what winning the Big Game means at the moment," said Stanford coach Jack Christiansen after his Cardinals had beaten the Golden Bears, 26-17, Saturday, "but we'll soon find out."

"I'm sure, had we won," said White, "it might have helped us -given us another talking point in recruiting."

By winning over Cal, Stanford finished the year with a 5-2 Pacific 8 Conference record and a 7-4 overall mark. The losses were to Penn State, Michigan and UCLA early in the season and to Pac 8 champ Southern California late in the campaign.

Stanford wound up the year winning five of its six lasts starts with the loss to USC being by only a point and in the final three seconds.

"Sure, you can look back and say maybe we should have done something differently," said Christiansen, "but on average I think it was a very good season. We started with a young offensive line, saw it mature with each succeeding game and now most of those kids will be back in 1974.

"If we can pick up some talent from the junior college ranks to fill holes in the defensive backfield, we should be in good shape next year. Of course, we lose quarterback Mike Boryla but we have two very fine prospects in Mike Cordova (6-4, 215) and Guy Benjamin (6-3 ½ 205)."

California, hurt in its recruiting by the student uprisings of nine years ago and National Collegiate Athletic Association probation a little later, seemed to be making headway this year (2-5 in the Pac8 and 4-7 over all) -at least offensively -but the Bears need a help for 1974. Still, White is optimistic.

"Our offense should be in good shape again next year," said White. "but we'll need some help on defense. We played with a lot of youngsters on defense this year and hopefully they'll make progress for next year."

As for Saturday's "Big Game," Cal turned the ball over to Stanford on four fumbles and three interceptions and that just about made the difference. A short punt in the fourth quarter led to the Cards' go-ahead touchdown, scored by freshman Ron Inge on a three-yard run, and junior running back Scott Laidlaw cracked 10 yards five minutes later for the insurance points. All but six of Stanford's points came as a result of turnovers.

Tennis Standout Smith Not Ready For Davis Cup

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Stan Smith, the world's top-ranking tennis player and America's No. 1 hope in this weekend's Davis Cup championship round with Australia, said today he is not ready to play in the finals.

"I want to be ready Friday, not today," said Smith, who will be playing in his sixth Cup finals. "I'd be afraid if I was playing too good.

"Experience has helped me. I think I know how to prepare for the matches. They will be tough because Australian players are used to this kind of pressure."

Smith, the native Californian who is the veteran of the youthful American team, will carry the brunt of the U.S. burden. He is at least assured of playing in the singles event, and in doubles will be teamed with Erik VanDillen.

The other singles spot will go to either Marty Riessen or Tom Gorman.

"These matches should be great, but it's a totally different atmosphere (compared to what) we had last year in Romania," Smith said. "We were scheduled over there and were watched every minute. We'll never play under conditions like that again."

A Try For Victory Was Scott's Choice

Al Scott is a man of his word. A couple of years ago when he was a pinch-hitting guest speaker at a meeting of the 49er Goal Rushers boosters group, he said he coaches football to win, not to tie.

His remarks came a few days after the Oakland Raiders had tied Kansas City, 20-20, in a game Raider coach John Madden made a decision to go for the sure tie rather than chance a loss. In the closing moments of that game (2:31 to go), the Raiders had a fourth down and less than a yard to go, and they trailed, 20-17. Madden sent in George Blanda to kick an eight-yard field goal and the Raiders had "won" a tie.

This move was questioned by some of the fans at the Goal Rushers' luncheon the following week. Forty-Niner Jim Johnson had failed to show up as planned, but the boosters were lucky that Hall of Famer Ernie Nevers and Scott were there as guests.

Nevers, who is going to be honored by the American Sports Club of San Francisco tomorrow night at Hyatt at Union Square, said, "I never played a game I didn't try to win."

Scott said he felt the same way. He would choose to go for the win under the same circumstances. Al got his chance last Friday night in Santa Rosa in the Top of the Bay Bowl.

After Petaluma scored a touchdown on an 85-yard kickoff return by John Alejos to open the second half of that game, the Hornets of Novato High found themselves trailing, 7-0. Then in the fourth quarter, Novato scored a touchdown on a one-yard run by Mark Magers, with 10:56 left in the game.

A kick from the usually dependable Mike Wilmott would tie the game, but a two-point conversion would win it. There was no delay from the sidelines. Scott chose to go for the victory. A pass failed, and instead of a win or tie, Novato was saddled with a 7-6 loss.

"I STILL THINK about it," Scott said this morning. "But a tie gives you an empty feeling. You still didn't beat them. To a man, my players wanted to go out and win it. I would have been disgusted if the kids wanted to settle for a tie."

After the game, Petaluma coach Tony Kehl said, "I respect him (Scott) for making that decision (to go for the win)." For Kehl, it was a very successful season, the Trojans winning all 10 of their games. In his two years as head coach, Kehl has led the team to two North Bay League championships and a combined record of 18 wins, one tie and a loss. That's some coaching record.

Scott said about his Novato team: "They

Rosie Cites 'Hustle' In Crown Win

BALTIMORE (UPI) - Rosemary Casals of Sausalito couldn't credit concentration for her upset victory over Billie Jean King in the $20,000 Lady Baltimore Tennis Tournament yesterday.

"With the variety of shots that I have," said Casals, "concentration doesn't play that much of a part. I simply have to out-hustle people like Billie Jean. This isn't the first time I have defeated her."

Casals who later teamed with King to win the doubles championship, has beaten Billie Jean on two other occasions this season.

"I made things harder for myself in the first set," said the winner, who took home $7,000 top prize money, plus an added $500 for her share in the doubles victory.

King lost in three sets, 3-6, 7-6, 6-4, when Casals rallied from a 4-2 deficit in the second set.

"She shot the ball deeper more consistently than I did," said King. "I guess I was getting tired."

King did appear to tire, particularly in the third set of the match.

Casals grabbed a 5-4 advantage in the final set when King netted a shot with the score 4-030. The winning point in the final game came when Casals rifled a backhand shot out of reach.

Garner Tallies 27, Triggers Tars' Win

By TOM THOMPSON

Paced by a 27-point performance by Wil Garner, College of Marin overcame stubborn Diablo Valley College, 66-49, in a non-conference basketball game Saturday night.

Grabbing an early lead and not letting go of it until late in the first half, the Vikings gave the Camino Norte Conference defending champions some stiff competition in the early going. The Tars (12-0) took the lead for good however with 4:21 left before claiming a 31-30 edge at intermission.

The Pleasant Hill visitors closed the margin to 11 but couldn't score in the final six minutes of play as the Tars coast to the win.

Bill Richardson kept the Vikings in the game before the final moments with 18 points. Transfer Bill Donnellan and freshman Harry Norman each tallied 11 points in their home debut as Tar cagers.

Reed, Tagge In Spotlight

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) - Jerry Tagge and Joe Reed, a pair of young quarterbacks without a past but hoped for bright futures, match calls and serves tonight when the going-nowhere Green Bay packers meet the San Francisco 49ers in the National Football League's nationally televised game.

A sellout crowd of more than 61,000 is anticipated despite forecasts of rain and the game will be televised locally as well as around the nation starting at 6 p.m. PDT.

There are a lot of similarities between Tagge and Reed and the Packers and 49ers.

The two young quarterbacks were given a chance to start three games back; both are strong-armed; both have been erratic, and both are in their second year in the pro ranks.

The Packers and 49ers were division champs a year ago, but now are merely playing out the string in an injury-plagued season. Green Bay goes into tonight's game with a 3-5-2 record; San Francisco is an even worse 3-7-0, but the 49ers are favored by four points, the typical spread given the home team when two clubs are even.

While Tagge got his chance because of injuries, Reed is being given a good look because the two veterans behind him - John Brodie and Steve Spurrier -haven't done anything of note.

Reports abound the 49ers are in the market for a quarterback -the most recent being a Sporting News story saying San Francisco has offered the New England Patriots Spurrier and a first-round draft pick for Jim Plunkett.

While San Francisco officials deny that report they make no mistake of the fact they are shopping for a quarterback. However, Reed could change all that with good performances in the four remaining games, starting tonight.

The Packers have Scott Hunter and Jim DelGazio on their roster and seemingly are in good shape at quarterback. But coach Dan Devine thinks Tagge could be the best of the three and thus his desire to give the youngster as much playing time as possible in the remaining games this year.

"Jerry hasn't played much, that's true," says Devine, "but what we have seen of him has been impressive. At least he has shown enough to make us think he might be a good quarterback one day soon."

Dick Nolan, the 49ers coach, has similar feelings about Reed, who started this season on the taxi squad.

"Joe has a strong arm, the strongest on our team," says Nolan. "We have to find out about him in the remaining games. Personally, I think he has a fine chance to make it once he gets some experience behind him. I don't think he has embarrassed himself to this point."

COLLEGE FOOTBALL

USC Belongs In Bowl — McKay

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

It may have sounded like boasting but that's the way John McKay talks when his University of Southern California football team is on top.

"Now we are back where we belong-in the Rose Bowl," McKay said Saturday minutes after his Trojans defeated UCLA, 23-13, to win the Pacific 8 Conference title and a sixth trip to the Rose Bowl in the last eight years.

Southern California, getting another fine game from running back Anthony Davis and quarterback Pat Haden, thus finished up with a perfect 7-0 Pac 8 record and 9-1-1 overall and will meet Big 10 co-champ Ohio State in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena in a rematch of a year ago when the Trojans won in a rout.

The victory over UCLA wasn't an easy one but the Bruins "helped" their cross-town rivals with four fumbles and two pass interceptions. Meanwhile, the Southern Cal defense shut off the highpowered UCLA Wishbone, an offense that had rolled up 445 points against 10 previous rivals, "holding" the Bruins to 249 yards rushing and only 82 passing.

Davis scored a touchdown and became the second Trojan running back in history to gain 1,000 yards in two straight seasons. His score came on a four-yard run in the opening quarter.

Haden, meanwhile, passed for 94 yards on eight of 15 completions with the big one a 16-yarder to Johnny McKay, the coach's son. Little Chris Limahelu added field goals of 35, 32 and 28 yards to wrap things up in a nice package and break Pepper Rodgers' heart.

The Bruins had gone into the game as the nation's No. 1 scoring team but every time they had a drive rolling someone coughed up the ball. Given six turnovers and able to control the ball on Davis' running and Haden's scrambling, Southern Cal dictated the tempo of the game and there was little the Bruins or Rodgers could do.

"Six turnovers was it," moaned Rodgers, "otherwise it was a pretty close game. We just haven't done that before, but everybody did it."

In other regular-season ending Pac 8 games, Stanford capitalized on four California mistakes for a 26-17 victory, Washington State blitzed Washington, 52-26, and Oregon State upset Oregon, 17-14.

In the Pacific Coast Athletic Association, San Diego State routed North Texas State, 56-9; San Jose State bopped Hawaii, 23-3; Long Beach State bowed to Cal Poly of San Luis Obispo, 31-7; Los Angeles State lost to San Diego, 30-27, and Fresno State defeated Northridge State, 54-27.

In another game of note, Jim McMillan connected on a nine-yard scoring pass to Dave Nicley with two seconds left to give Boise State a 32-31 victory over University of California at Davis and a Dec. 1 National Collegiate Athletic Association Division II playoff spot against South Dakota. Cal Poly San Luis Obisop could have won the spot had Boise State lost.

Oregon State probably saved Dee Andros' job by upsetting Oregon in their "Big Game." Tailback Ray Taroli threw a 26-yard scoring pass and returned a kickoff 68 yards to set up another score as the Beavers beat Oregon for the eighth time in the last nine years. Both schools finished with 2-9 records.

NBA ROUNDUP

Celtics' Hondo: He'll Get You

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

There's something about John Havlicek you notice if you're playing against him. He may get you with his shooting, he may get you with his defense. He may even get you with his passing or defense. You never know how he's going to get you, but one thing you can be pretty sure of—he's going to get you.

Hondo suffered through a one-for-six shooting cold spell in the first half but finally found the range in the third quarter last night and hit seven straight baskets as the Boston Celtics ran their National Basketball Association winning streak to 11 games by downing the Cleveland Cavaliers 107-101.

"Things weren't working for me in the first half and I was just patient," said Havlicek, who finished the night with 25 points. "You just can't force the issue when you are not hitting the hoop.

"I really don't get concerned if I am not scoring points. Veterans learn to be patient and I just happened to be in the right place at the right time in that third period," added the former Ohio State star.

Boston Coach Tom Heinsohn used his second team most of the second quarter, but went back to his first five throughout the second half after the Cavaliers bounced back to knot the score at 70-all with 4:54 left in the third stanza.

The score was tied twice more before Havlicek split the nets with a 14-footer and followed with an eight-foot jumper to put the Celtics ahead to stay.

Elsewhere in the NBA, the Capital Bullets beat New York 109-81, Seattle clipped KC-Omaha 104-99, Los Angeles trounced Portland 137-109 and Milwaukee trimmed Philadelphia 105-96.

The Bullets outscored New York 33-19 in the third quarter with Phil Chenier chipping in 12 of his game high 26 points as Capital went on to a decisive win over in its last home appearance at the University of Maryland.

John Brisker scored a career high 47 points and spoiled Nate Archibald's return as the SuperSonics dealt the Kings their seventh straight loss. Archibald, having missed 13 straight games with an injury, played 43 minutes and was the Kings' top scorer with 21 points.

Hot-shooting Gail Goodrich played only three quarters but poured in 40 points to continue his one man domination of Portland as he led Los Angeles to a rout over the Trail Blazers. The little guard sank 12 of 14 field goal attempts and 16 of 18 free throw tries as he ran his season total to 157 points against Portland in four games.

With Goodrich leading the way, the Laker starters connected on a torrid 41 of their first 69 shots from the floor before the reserves mopped up in the fourth quarter. On his 25th point of the night, late in the second quarter, the nine-year veteran reached the 12,000-point plateau of his NBA career.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 31 points and had 17 rebounds to lead Milwaukee to its easy victory over Philadelphia.

Minnesota Next For Lowly Seals

OAKLAND (UPI) - California's Golden Seals, who dropped a 3-2 decision last night to the Detroit Red Wings, play their next game at home against Minnesota on Wednesday. The Seals lost Saturday to Minnesota, 6-3.

Nick Libett scored the winning goal for Detroit's Red Wings at 14:03 of the third period, shooting on a flip from Bill Collins who was behind the Seals net.

The other Seals score was in the second period by Joey Johnston.

Ace Bailey and Henry Bouchas scored the other Detroit points.

Warriors Visit Chicago After Beating Knicks

OAKLAND (UPI) - The Golden State Warriors, who are giving the Los Angeles Lakers a race in the National Basketball Association's Pacific Division, move to Chicago tomorrow for their next game.

With Jim Barnett scoring 24 points and Cazzie Russell adding another 20, the Warriors upended the Knicks 107-99 in New York Saturday night and are now only a game behind the Lakers.

The Warriors have a 12-6 record while the Lakers are 15-7.

Grey Cup Title Goes To Ottawa

TORONTO (UPI) — The oddsmakers called it right. The Ottawa Rough Riders, given a four point edge going into yesterday's Grey Cup game, rolled past the Edmonton Eskimos 22-18 to take the Canadian professional football championship.

But although they came out on the losing end of the score in the 61st renewal of the Grey Cup classic, the Eskimos had an overall statistical edge in play, picking up 298 yards net offense compared to 269 for the Riders.

The Eskimos' undoing proved to be injuries to their two quarterbacks, five fumbles—of which they lost three—and some effective Rough Rider work on their vaunted ground game.

But it was the Riders who actually came out on top in rushing, with 119 yards compared to 92 for the Eskimos. Bell was restricted to a below-par 54 yards on 12 carries.

Edmonton's other major offensive weapon, split end George McGowan, was also effectively throttled, catching only five passes for 58 yards.

But McGowan's showing was at least due in part to the fact that Edmonton signal callers Tom Wilkinson and Bruce Lemmerman both played with injuries.

Mill Valley Wins Title In Soccer

Curt Oldenburg climaxed an extremely productive weekend by scoring on a penalty kick in the final minute yesterday to give Mill Valley Seventy-One a 4-3 victory over Ross Eighth and the championship of the Marin Youth Soccer Association countywide tournament in the seventh-eighth grade division.

Ross "A" won the third-fourth championship with a 5-0 victory over Greenbrae at Ross School and Marinwood took the fifth-sixth title with a 4-3 victory over Ross at Marin Country Day School in Corte Madera.

After Ross Eighth built a 3-1 halftime lead at MCDS on two goals by Dean Grinfelder, Mill Valley rallied on two scores by Oldenburg and one by Dave Baumgartner.

Oldenburg had four goals Saturday in Mill Valley's 8-1 semi-final victory over Terra Linda. Ross Eighth disposed of Fairfax, 4-0, in the other semi-final Saturday.

Sam Skinner of Ross "A" scored three goals in the third-fourth championship victory over Greenbrae, while Scott Flemming and John Davis added one each. Ross "A" was unscored upon in the tournament, including a 2-0 semi-final win Saturday over Ross "B." The other semi saw Greenbrae edge Wolfe Grade, 1-0.

"The coaches — Ed Wright with Marinwood, Rocky Welczeck with Mill Valley and Mason Flemming with Ross — did a super job," said tournament director Bob Braghetta.

BOB TROPPMANN, former Redwood football coach and now physical education teacher, did a good job putting the details of the game together. After a few mistakes at last year's game (such as no ambulance available for possible injuries), the bowl committee decided to have Troppmann, experienced at putting clinics and big sports affairs together, as general manager for the game.

He issued seven-page instructions to all the persons who played a part in the game and he didn't leave one detail to chance. I was surprised Tropp allowed it to rain the night of the game, since those instructions didn't call for any of the wet stuff. Anyway, it didn't rain heavily. It was more like a heavy mist falling on Bailey Field. The approximately 3,100 fans didn't get too wet.

It was better than the heavy rain which flooded San Rafael High School's field Thanksgiving morning, sneer the opponents of my suggestion the other day that the game shoudl be held on Thanksgiving in San Rafael.

SONOMA SLATE

Basketball Play Starts Tomorrow

With the dust from football season barely settled yet, basketball season opens in Southern Sonoma County tomorrow night, and two local cage tournaments are scheduled this weekend. Tomorrow night at 7 o'clock, Petaluma High School hosts Sonoma.

Friday at 7:30 p.m., the first All-City High School Classic begins at Petaluma High School with a game between Casa Grande of Petaluma and Rancho Cotate of Rohnert Park. That will be followed by a 9 p.m. match between St. Vincent of Petaluma and host Petaluma.

The winners of opening round games will play for the championship Saturday night at 9 o'clock, preceded by a consolation game at 7:30 p.m. between Friday night's losing teams.

At Sonoma State College Friday night, the defending Far Western Conference champion Cossacks will be hosting the second annual Coca Cola Basketball Classic at the Rohnert Park campus.

The Cossacks' opening round game will be against California State College, Dominguez Hills at 9 p.m., with a 7:30 p.m. contest scheduled between Western Baptist College of Oregon and Humboldt State College.

The championship game will be held Saturday at 9 p.m., with the consolation match at 7:30 p.m.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) - Jack Christiansen of Stanford and Grant Teaff of Baylor will be the head coaches for the 36th annual Blue-Gray game Dec. 18.

Basketball Heads Marin Schedule

With the advent of the drenching Marin rains, local high school sports action prudently runs for cover, so activity switches this week to sheltered gyms for the opening of basketball season.

Five of the eight Marin County athletic league teams will begin play tomorrow, and the remainder will see action by the weekend.

The distinction of playing the first game of the 1973-74 campaign belongs to Tamalpais High School, which will meet Galileo of San Francisco at 3:30 p.m. tomorrow at Tam.

Three other home games tomorrow find Washington of San Francisco at San Rafael, 4 p.m., Balboa of San Francisco at Drake, 4 p.m., and Justin of Napa at San Marin, 7:30 p.m. Terra Linda coach Chris Arnold makes his debut tomorrow on the road in Vallejo against St. Patrick's at 4 p.m.

Friday's schedule features the first half of a traveling road show involving four teams. Marin Catholic will meet Lowell of San Francisco at Redwood at 7 p.m., and Sacred Heart of the city will play the host Giants immediately afterward. Saturday, the affair moves to Lowell, with Marin Catholic meeting SH and Redwood facing Lowell.

Friday's other local games find Wilson of San Francisco at Tamalpais, 3:30 p.m.; Lincoln of San Francisco at San Rafael, 8 p.m.; and Sonoma at Novato, 8 p.m. Terra Linda remains on the road, playing De Anza in Richmond at 8 p.m., and Drake visits Vallejo at 8:30 p.m.

San Marin is the last team to open, hosting Analy of Sebastopol at 8 p.m. Saturday.

Cameron, Bachich Lead Hockey Victory

Kip Cameron and Andy Bachich came up with three-goal hat tricks yesterday as the Marin Amateur Hockey Club pee wees defeated host Sun Valley, 9-5, in a Northern California Amateur Hockey League game.

The bantams lost at Sun Valley, 12-1, with Bob Harding averting a shutout for the second straight week with a goal. The mites lost to Belmont, 13-1, at Raydine's Ice Rink in Corte Madera, and the squirts drew a bye.

The Superior motor home

Steel construction makes it a better buy.

Superior's a solid investment any way you look at it. Outside, an exterior of zinc-coated steel and aluminum is virtually trouble free. Inside, zinc-coated steel girders are welded every 24 inches to form a firm framework of protection. Rust and body deterioration are things of the past. Superior's zinc coating has seen to that. Choose from three luxurious lengths. Three exterior color schemes. And seven beautiful interiors.

Adversity Hits Steelers; Races Tighten

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

If, as Terry Hanratty insists, the Pittsburgh Steelers thrive on adversity, then they should be feasting the final three weeks of the season. Things can't get much more adverse.

The Steelers saw their American Football Conference Central Division lead cut to a half game and the AFC West and Central races thrown into a turmoil yesterday when they were upset 21-16 by the Cleveland Browns and the red-hot Denver Broncos stunned the Kansas City Chiefs 14-10.

The Cincinnati Bengals ripped the St. Louis Cardinals 42-24 to turn the Central race into a three-team affair and the Oakland Raiders moved back into the thick of the Western race with a 31-3 romp over the San Diego Chargers.

Pittsburgh, which held a 2 ½-game bulge two weeks ago and seemed sure of a division title, now must face the prospect of holding its lead next Monday night against the World Champion Dolphins at Miami.

The AFC race now shapes up this way. Miami has walked off with the East and six teams are fighting for three playoff spots available in the West and Central. In the Central, Pittsburgh is a half-game ahead of Cleveland and Cincinnati is a game behind. In the West, Denver is a half-game ahead of Kansas City and Oakland, both tied for second.

Greg Pruitt, one of the smallest men on the field, turned out to be the biggest for the Browns as he scooted 19 yards for a TD with just 61 seconds left. Joe Gilliam, forced in at quarterback when Hanratty suffered a badly bruised wrist on the fourth play of the game, brought Pittsburgh to the Cleveland 15 but had four passes into the end zone broken up.

"Winning a big one like this does a lot more for me because I'm just beginning to gain confidence and play the way I should play," said Pruitt, who also scored on a 15-yard pass from Mike Phipps in the second period.

The winning score was set up when linebacker John Garlington recovered Gilliam's fumble and two plays later on third-and-nine, Phipps scrambled and hit Pruitt for a 42-yard pass to the Steeler 18. Two plays later, Pruitt scored the winning TD.

Charley Johnson threw TD passes of 18 and 40 yards to Haven Moses in an 81-second span of the second quarter and Denver's defense made them stand up.

Ken Anderson threw three TD passes and rookie Lenvill Elliott ran for one score and caught a TD pass as the Bengals swamped St. Louis.

In other games yesterday, Los Angeles stopped New Orleans 24-13, Atlanta downed the New York Jets 28-20, Minnesota whipped Chicago 31-13, Philadelphia edged the New York Giants 20-16, Buffalo defeated Baltimore 24-17 and New England blasted Houston 32-0. Green Bay is at San Francisco tonight.

John Hadl threw TD passes of 17 yards to Jim Bertelsen and four to Bob Klein and Tony Baker ran five yards for another TD as the Rams beat New Orleans to maintain their one-game lead in the National Football Conference West. Archie Manning threw 27 yards to Bob Newland for the only Saints' TD.

Atlanta kept pace a game behind as Bob Lee threw two TD passes and Eddie Ray plunged for two more scores to defeat the Jets. Lee, forced to play with rookie receivers because of injuries to regulars, threw a 38-yard TD pass to Tom Geredine and a 47-yarder to Louis Neal. Joe Namath, starting for the first time since Sept. 23, threw two TD passes for the Jets.

John Gilliam caught a pair of second half TD passes and set up a third as the Vikings beat Chicago to run their record to 9-1 and Tommy Sullivan ran for 156 yards, including a three-yard dash for the deciding TD in the third period, as the Eagles beat the Giants.

Dwight Harrison ran 31 yards with a deflected Marty Domres pass with 71 seconds for the tiebreaking score as the Bills beat Baltimore. O.J. Simpson had 124 yards rushing for the Bills and now has 1,447 yards, or 416 less than Jimmy Brown's single season record of 1,863.

Jim Plunkett's two TD passes carried the Patriots over Houston, giving the Oilers nine losses in 10 games this season and 21 in their last 23 games.

Miller's Spark, Nicklaus' Guile Lead Golf Cup Win

Combined AP & UPI

MARBELLA, Spain - Johnny Miller furnished the spark and Jack Nicklaus the guile as the United States yesterday won its 12th team title in the 21-year history of the World Cup Golf Tournament.

Miller, the junior member of the American pair of blond bombers, captured the individual title with a 72-hole total of 277, 11 under par over the 6,905-yard, par-72 Nueva Andalucia course on Spain's south coast.

More Golf

HASHIMOTO, Japan - Al Geiberger won the individual title by two strokes in the U.S.-Japan Golf Tournament but the Japanese took the team title by 17 strokes.

Bowling

SINGAPORE - Bernie Caterer of Britain defeated Glen Watson of Canada 643-642 to win the men's title and Pimolrat Srivises of Thailand defeated Mele Anaya of Mexico 569-495 to win the women's title of bowling's World Cup.

CHICAGO - Jim Godman downed Roy Buckley 201-171 to capture the $100,000 Brunswick World Open Bowling Tournament.

Cross-Country

GAINESVILLE, Fla. - Frank Shorter of the Florida Track Club edged out Doug Brown of the University of Tennessee by 2½ seconds to win his fourth straight National Amateur Athletic Union Cross Country Championship.

Auto Racing

SPORT SHORTS

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. - Peter Gregg and Hurley Haywood yesterday combined to drive a Porche Carrera to victory in the GT Challenge Cup race.

Tennis

BUENOS AIRES - Guillermo Vilas of Argentina yesterday won the men's single title in the Argentine Open Tennis Championship when Bjorn Borg of Sweden fainted and was forced to retire from the match.

JOHANNESBURG - Jimmy Connors beat Arthur Ashe, 6-4, 7-6, 6-3 in the all-American final of the South African Open Tennis Championships today.

Basketball

DETROIT - The National Basketball Association Detroit Pistons have lost veteran guard Stu Lantz for at least six weeks due to a fractured left wrist he suffered in Saturday's 114-112 overtime loss at Chicago.

Football

CLEVELAND - Veteran guard Gene Hickerson, considered one of the all-time great offensive linemen in the National Football League, plans to retire as an active player with the Cleveland Browns at the end of the current season.

Eisenhower's Letter Said Still Existing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A letter from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower to Gen. George C. Marshall stating the future president's plans to divorce his wife to marry another woman probably still exists, the Washington Star-News reported yester-day.

The newspaper quoted retired Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan, military aide to President Harry S. Truman, as saying the letter is probably at the Marshall library at Virginia Military Institute.

Merle Miller, in a new book about Truman published last week, said Eisenhower's predecessor in the White House told him in an interview he destroyed the letter. Miller said that Eisenhower, then supreme commander of allied forces in Europe, wrote that he wanted to divorce wife Mamie and marry Kay Summersby, his driver in London.

The Star-News quoted Vaughan as verifying Eisenhower wrote such a letter to Gen. George C. Marshall, Army chief of staff during World War II. Vaughan said Truman did not destroy the letter, but sent it to Marshall, the Star-News reported.

The newspaper quoted Vaughan as recalling: "Eisenhower was commander of our forces in Europe, and he wrote Gen. Marshall seeking advice. He wanted to know what getting a divorce would do to his career. Marshall wrote back that that was 'the most stupid thing you could think of doing'."

The Miller book, "Plain Speaking," quoted Truman as saying Marshall "wrote him back a letter the like of which you never did see. He said ... if Eisenhower even came close to doing such a thing, he'd not only bust him out of the Army, he'd see to it that never for the rest of his life would he be able to draw a peaceful breath."

Office Building Permit Due Study

The San Rafael Planning Commission will consider a permit, requested by county supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere, for an office building at 1292 Lincoln Avenue when it meets at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in city hall.

The commission will also consider final landscaping plans for Courthouse Square, site of a mammoth office building and parking garage project.

Eagle Scout

Eagle Award For Scout Set Monday

William P. Leigh, 15, of San Rafael will receive the Eagle Scout award in a court of honor to be held by Troop 38 at 8 p.m. next Monday at St. Luke Presbyterian Church in San Rafael.

Leigh, a sophomore at San Rafael High School, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robbin G. Leigh of 16 Heartwood Court.

He has been a scout for seven years, first joining Cubs in Pasadena. After he moved to San Rafael, he joined Troop 38 and has served as patrol leader, assistant senior patrol leader and senior patrol leader.

He participated in 50-mile and 80-mile hikes and the 1973 Jamboree in Idaho with the troop.

Last January he also joined Explorer Post 101 and served as secretary-treasurer. He skippered the winning boat in the 1973 Marin Council Explorer sailoff.

Senator Hopes Lie Test Will Be Used In Slaying

CHICAGO (UPI) — Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., says he hopes lie detector tests would be used to determine if members of a burglary gang murdered his 21-year-old daughter, Valerie, during a break-in at Percy's suburban Kenilworth home seven years ago.

Percy, contacted yesterday in Hawaii by a Chicago radio station, said he first received word about new developments in the unsolved death of his daughter from reports published Saturday.

"We are very anxious as a family to have this cleared up," he said.

Percy said he understands the prime suspect in the case has said he is innocent and prepared to take a lie detector test.

"It would be my hope electronic testing would be used on him to determine the validity of the statement," Percy said.

The Chicago Sun-Times reported in its yesterday editions that Harold Wayne Hohimer told its reporters and poice that his brother, Francis, killed Miss Percy. The newspaper also reported crime syndicate figure Leo Rugendorf, who died last April, named Francis Hohimer as the killer.

However, the newspaper said Francis Hohimer, 46, now serving a burglary sentence at the Iowa State Penitentiary, told investigators he did not kill Miss Percy and volunteered to take a lie detector test.

Francis Hohimer told officials Miss Percy, who was blundgeoned and stabbed to death Sept. 18, 1966, was killed by Frederick Donald Malchow, who was killed following a 1967 escape from a Pennsylvania jail.

He said Malchow and two other members of a burglary gang came to his apartment in Chicago following the break-in and slaying at Percy's home, investigators said.

Russian Mathematician Is Put In Mental Home

The sources said an unfavorable psychiatric report was read to the court. They said his lawyer asked if the three psychiatrists who signed the report had ever seen Shikhanovich but was told this had nothing to do with the case.

Shikhanopich was ordered to an ordinary mental hospital rather than to a prison hospital. Under normal conditions, he would have to stay there until a psychiatric commission, which meets every six months, pronounces him fit.

With the increasing cost of driving, higher prices for gasoline, and rationing in the immediate future, car owners must have the best possible performance from their cars at the lowest possible cost. And that's exactly what we offer today.

If you are buying a new car we offer the highest price we can afford to pay for your old car and full value in the car you buy. Then, your new AMC car is backed by the AMC Buyer Protection Plan. It says: If anything we did goes wrong with your new AMC car (except tires) in the first 12,000 miles or 12 months, we fix it free.

Isn't that the way you like to do business?

AMC BUYER PROTECTION PLAN

When you buy a new 1974 AMC car from an American Motors dealer, American Motors Corporation guarantees to you that, except for tires, it will pay for the repair or replacement of any part it supplies that is defective in material or workmanship. This guarantee is good for 12 months from the date the car is first used or 12,000 miles, whichever comes first. All we require is that the car be properly maintained and cared for under normal use and service in the fifty United States or Canada and that guaranteed repairs or replacements be made by an AMC Dealer.

2. A free loaner car from almost every one of our dealers if guaranteed repairs take overnight.

3. Special Trip Interruption Protection.

4. And a toll free hot line to AMC Headquarters.
